Capital Conference registration opens next week

Registration for the 2019 OSBA Capital Conference and Trade Show opens on July 15. When registering, don't forget about OSBA's special group rate. Once a member district registers at least seven individuals for the group rate of $1,975, an unlimited number of additional people from the district can register for free. The individual rate is $310. Keynote speakers at this year's conference include award-winning actress Laura Linney; world-class magician and Science Channel host Jason Latimer; Center of Science and Industry Chief Executive Officer Dr. Frederic Bertley; and former Ohio State University football star and youth advocate Maurice Clarett. For more information on Ohio's premier public education professional development event, visit <http://conference.ohioschoolboards.org>.

Report examines states' efforts to enhance teachers' skills

A recent national survey found that 9 in every 10 teachers wish they had more opportunities to further their careers and professional skills without leaving the classroom. Unfortunately, in many cases, teachers aren't given these types of opportunities to lead from the classroom. State leaders around the nation are working hard to address this issue by trying to help schools become places where teachers want to work and stay. An Education Commission of the States report highlights state policies designed to support, recognize and advance teachers' skills. The report is posted at <http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/65070>.

Ohio ranks low in child health report, especially for dental care

A recent study by WalletHub ranked Ohio children's health care 42nd among the 50 states and the District of Columbia. The study examined 33 key indicators of cost, quality and access to health care. A breakdown of the report's three main findings showed Ohio ranking 46th in children's nutrition, physical activity and obesity; 43rd in oral health; and 29th in health and access to health care. WalletHub is a personal finance website that conducts studies on a wide range of financial and social topics. The full study is available at <http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/82889>.

Study: Students without home internet struggle with 'homework gap'

Nearly 3 million students around the country have trouble keeping up with their studies because they do not have internet service at home, according to a recent study by The Associated Press. While students in nearly every school have access to computers and the internet, the cost of home internet service and gaps in its availability create obstacles in urban areas and rural communities alike. In what has become known as the "homework gap," an estimated 17% of U.S. students do not have access to computers at home and 18% do not have home access to broadband internet, The Associated Press found in an analysis of U.S. Census data. Children without internet at home are more likely to be students of color; from low-income families; or in households with lower parental education levels, according to the study. This puts them at a disadvantage, because students with home internet consistently have higher scores in reading, math and science than students who do not.

EHOVE summer camp emphasizes public safety, technology

Almost 300 students in grades four through nine signed up for EHOVE Career Center's summer camp, taking part in STEAM activities, including two new courses on public safety and drones.

Students navigated drones through obstacle courses using virtual reality technology and learned how to program their movements.

Campers also took turns outside using fire extinguishers to put out a diesel fire. They discovered that water won't extinguish a diesel or grease fire and learned safety skills, including how to stop bleeding.

"We wanted to increase interest in public safety and let them see if this is something they want to do," EHOVE Assistant Director Matt Ehrhardt told a local newspaper. "It's all about exposure. Here, kids experience what they've never experienced before."

Report offers ideas to reduce chronic absenteeism

Chronic absenteeism — defined as students missing 10% or more of school days — is a target area for many school districts seeking to improve student achievement. A report in Edutopia offers a two-step process for reducing chronic absenteeism. Learn more at <http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/33731>.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

by Will Schwartz, lobbyist

Proposed changes to graduation requirements include competency score, credentialing

The Ohio General Assembly is just days away from approving long-term changes to high school graduation requirements. The changes were added by the Ohio Senate to House Bill 166, the state biennial budget bill. The changes are not yet approved due to failed negotiations over the budget bill and other legislative items, which forced lawmakers to miss their June 30 deadline and pass a temporary, 17-day funding extension. Despite the setback, the legislature and Gov. Mike DeWine are expected to retain the Senate’s changes to the graduation requirements.

The plan would first apply to students in the class of 2023 but would permit students in the classes of 2018 through 2022 to graduate under the new system, instead of the system to which they are currently subjected.

Under the plan, students must attain a “competency score” on each of the state end-of-course exams in English arts II and algebra I. Additionally, students must obtain at least two “seals,” a type of credential that demonstrates a student’s competency in or completion of assessments, coursework, service or skills. The competency score — a new scoring level — will be established by March 1, 2020, by the Governor’s Executive Workforce Board, in consultation with the superintendent of public instruction and the chancellor of higher education.

The 12 seals include:

- State Seal of Biliteracy: obtained by demonstrating foreign language and English language proficiency according to state guidelines;
- OhioMeansJobs-Readiness Seal: obtained by demonstrating 15 professional skills and characteristics prescribed by the state;

- industry-recognized credential seal: obtained by attaining an industry-recognized credential that is aligned with an in-demand job;
- college-ready seal: obtained by attaining a remediation-free score on the ACT or SAT;
- military enlistment seal: obtained by enlisting in the U.S. armed forces or participating in a Junior Reserve Officer Training program;
- citizenship seal: obtained by attaining a proficient score on the state’s American history and American government exams, attaining a proficient score on an Advanced Placement (AP) or International Baccalaureate (IB) exam in American history and American government or attaining an A or B grade in a College Credit

Refocusing your board from conflict to kids

Friday, July 19, 10 a.m.-2 p.m. • OSBA office, Columbus • Cost is $100

As a board member, how often do you focus on “what’s best for our kids,” particularly when discussions go wrong, personalities clash and building consensus becomes unattainable? Student achievement is more than test scores. High-achieving boards of education maintain an emphasis on collaboration and empowering their administrative teams to help each and every student. This workshop welcomes the leadership team – the board, superintendent and treasurer – to gather information that can be used to refocus on kids.

Agenda

9:30 a.m. Registration

10 a.m. Snapshot of your board role

Understanding and embracing your role on the team and “staying in your lane” is extremely important. A brief overview of roles and responsibilities will set the stage for the day’s discussions.

Teri Morgan, deputy director of board and management services, OSBA

10:30 a.m. When conflict comes to call

Even seasoned school boards can crack when their districts face controversy. Identify common controversies that boards may face, including contentious public participation sessions, employment matters that become PR nightmares and other sensitive, controversial or uncomfortable issues that boards are asked to address. Leave with practical tips and recommendations for resolutions to help keep external conflicts from affecting your board’s cohesion.

Jennifer A. Hardin, deputy director of legal services, OSBA

11:30 a.m. Stretch break

11:35 a.m. Communication and consensus

Choosing our words seems so simple, but the wrong words often cause conflict. Review the basics of communication and get tips for improving conversations and social media interactions.

Teri Morgan

Noon Lunch (provided)

12:30 p.m. Students in the spotlight

Board members can work with the community in constructive efforts to increase learning opportunities and student achievement or they can behave in ways that undermine these efforts. What makes the difference? What are the critical factors that accurately predict high or low student achievement in a district? Learn research-based best practices to keep your students in the student achievement spotlight.

Kim Miller-Smith, senior student achievement consultant, OSBA

1:30 p.m. Show and tell

1:45 p.m. Final thoughts

2 p.m. Adjourn

Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. Register online at www.ohioschoolboards.org/workshops or contact Laurie Miller, senior events manager, at (614) 540-4000, (800) 589-OSBA or Lmiller@ohioschoolboards.org.

Attendance, Tuition and Custody Law Workshop

Friday, Aug. 2 • 9 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

Nationwide Hotel and Conference Center, Lewis Center

Cost: $190, includes registration, continental breakfast, lunch, materials and OSBA's recently revised "Ohio Public Student Attendance and Tuition Guide."

OSBA's Attendance, Tuition and Custody Law Workshop is designed for EMIS coordinators, attendance officers and others responsible for enforcing attendance and tuition matters in a district. This year's workshop focuses on Ohio's attendance laws, unique issues associated with adult student learners, deciphering divorce decrees, handling tuition disputes and working with resources to resolve attendance and tuition questions.

Agenda

8:30 a.m. Registration and continental breakfast (provided)

8:50 a.m. Welcome

9 a.m. A look at Ohio's attendance laws

Review current laws in Ohio on attendance, absences and truancy. Revisit House Bill 410 requirements and the most frequently asked questions about tracking and reporting attendance, handling excessive absences and establishing absence intervention teams.

Brittany Miracle, program administrator, Ohio Department of Education (ODE)

10 a.m. Unique issues associated with emancipated minors and adult student learners

This session highlights some of the unique issues and challenges that arise with adult students and emancipated minors. Walk through practical scenarios and leave with answers to frequently asked questions.

Andrea Stone, Esq., Ulmer & Berne LLP

10:45 a.m. Break

11 a.m. Deciphering divorce decrees and other court orders

Court orders frequently determine which parent is entitled to enroll a student in school and who has the right and responsibility to sign important school documents and consent to school services. Learn more about reading, understanding and modifying court orders.

Derek Towster, Esq., Scott Scriven LLP

Noon Lunch (provided)

1 p.m. Tuition: Calculating, billing and handling disputes

This session reviews the laws and processes related to tuition obligations, including how payment is calculated, how to change the district responsible for paying tuition and how best to handle other types of tuition disputes.

Leanne Sidley and Andy Smith, area coordinators, ODE

1:45 p.m. Break

2 p.m. Working with your resources

So often, the resolution of an attendance or tuition question requires the knowledge or assistance of many different agencies and resources. This session presents real-life scenarios to a panel of experts to help identify opportunities for collaboration, cooperation and resolution.

3:30 p.m. Adjourn

The workshop will be held at Nationwide Hotel and Conference Center, 100 Green Meadows Drive South, Lewis Center, 43035. The phone number is (614) 880-4300. Register online at www.ohioschoolboards.org/workshops or contact Laurie Miller, OSBA senior events manager, at (614) 540-4000, (800) 589-OSBA or Lmiller@ohioschoolboards.org. Unauthorized audio recording or videotaping of any session is strictly prohibited.

Reasonable Suspicion Training

OSBA is offering a reasonable suspicion drug and alcohol training program for supervisors. Completion of this course is required for all supervisors of safety-sensitive (commercial driver's license) drivers, including school bus drivers. Best practice is that each district have at least two administrators trained in this requirement.

The course meets the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration U.S. Department of Transportation requirements. Attendees will receive a certificate of completion.

Details: This workshop is being offered on Tuesday, Aug. 13, at the OSBA office in Columbus. Choose either the morning session, from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m., or the afternoon session, from noon to 2 p.m.

Cost: $50

Registration: Online at www.ohioschoolboards.org/workshops or contact Laurie Miller, senior events manager, at (614) 540-4000, (800) 589-OSBA or Lmiller@ohioschoolboards.org

- Honors Diploma seal: obtained by satisfying state criteria that exceed the state’s minimum graduation requirements;
- technology seal: obtained by attaining a proficient score on an AP or IB exam in technology, attaining an A or B grade in a CCP course in technology or completing a technology course offered by the school district;
- community service seal: obtained by completing a community service project that is aligned with guidelines set by the district;
- fine and performing arts seal: obtained by demonstrating skill in the fine or performing arts based on a district-created evaluation;
- student engagement seal: obtained by participating in extracurricular activities like athletics, clubs or student government, which must meet district-set guidelines.

At least one seal must be completed from the first nine options listed above. The second seal may be completed from any of the available seals.

The proposed graduation plan also provides flexibility for students who are unable to attain a competency score on both the English and math tests. Such students must first retake any test for which they did not attain a competency score, and such students must be offered remedial support by their district. If a student still does not attain a competency score on both tests, the student may use an alternative pathway to graduation.

Such a student can qualify for graduation by earning CCP credit in the course in which the student failed to attain a competency score, by enlisting in the U.S. armed forces or by demonstrating competency in what the plan calls “foundational” or “supporting” options. To demonstrate competency, students must complete two of the following options, one of which must be

Hamilton students spend summer learning city management

A group of high school students in the southwest Ohio city of Hamilton are getting a summer crash course on how to run a modern city.

An eight-week career and leadership program introduces students to job opportunities and possible careers. The course also presents students with realistic challenges city leaders deal with all the time.

"We learn networking, we learn social skills, we spend a lot of time on soft skills," Dan Bates, president and chief executive officer of the Greater Hamilton Chamber of Commerce told a local TV station. "Really, just how to present themselves in public."

Any high school student in the Hamilton area is eligible to enroll in the summer program. Students from Hamilton City and Fairfield City are participating this year.

Local businesses also enjoy getting involved in the program because it gives them a chance to show students there are opportunities to stay in the area after school.

"I think we learn as much as the kids do," Bates said. "It's interesting to see their perceptions of different businesses and different things that are happening in the city."

Above all, the program is designed to invest in the future of Hamilton through a younger generation, Bates said.
