Another Capital Conference keynote speaker confirmed

The speaker for the Monday Capital Conference Luncheon will be Cedric Jennings, whose determination led him from one of the most dangerous neighborhoods in the nation's capital to the Ivy League. Jennings returned to Washington as a social worker to help place abused and neglected foster children with stable, healthy families. In 1998, he was the subject of the best-seller, "A Hope in the Unseen: An American Odyssey From the Inner City to the Ivy League," by Pulitzer Prize-winning author, Ron Suskind. The book follows Jennings from high school until he fulfilled his dream of attending a top college. Jennings' story remains as relevant and moving as ever. Census bureau explores the question: Where are our teachers going?

Teachers are leaving their jobs for other careers at a rate that has grown steadily every year in the past three years and shows no signs of slowing down. According to the U.S. Census Bureau, the majority of educators leaving teaching are starting careers in health care and social assistance fields, which include nursing, child care and family assistance services. Administrative services, which includes office workers, is another category attracting educators leaving the workforce. For more information on this trend, visit http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/58598.

State offers another round of funding to replace lead plumbing fixtures

The Ohio Facilities Construction Commission invites schools that have not yet applied for the Lead Plumbing Fixture Replacement Assistance Grant Program to do so. A second round of funding is available to help eligible Ohio schools assess and replace drinking fountains, water coolers, plumbing fixtures and limited connected piping identified as being over the federal action level for lead in drinking water. Schools built before 1990 can apply for reimbursement of up to $15,000. For more information, visit http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/14771 or contact grants.info@ ofcc.ohio.gov. The deadline to apply is July 31.

OSBA launching new workshop focusing on districts' financial fitness

Board members need to have a strong grasp of the work of their treasurers and the financial state of their school districts. By understanding finances, board members are better positioned to help their treasurers communicate about their district's strengths and resources. OSBA's newest training opportunity — "Your District's Financial Health: Developing Your Expertise as the Leadership Team" — is designed for board members, treasurers and superintendents to share a day of collaborative professional development on district finances. Topics include communicating budgets to the public; ensuring successful board-treasurer partnerships; financial policies and audits; managing and monitoring educator certifications; and navigating the legal and practical implications of relying on outside organizations like booster groups for support. OSBA is encouraging district leaders to attend as a team by offering a special registration rate for districts that register three or more participants at the same time. The Aug. 23 session runs from 9 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. in Columbus. For details and to register, visit http://links.ohio schoolboards.org/30013.

Inventors are heroes at Camp Invention

Inventors are superheroes. That's what Laura Warren, a reading teacher at Fort Frye Local's (Washington) Salem-Liberty Elementary School, told the nearly 90 students participating in Camp Invention at Washington State Community College.

"If we take our inventors and make them into heroes then it reaches the kids better," Warren, the camp director, told a local newspaper.

The program, started by the National Inventor's Hall of Fame in North Canton, partners every summer with more than 1,300 school districts in all 50 states. Students entering kindergarten through sixth grade participate in hands-on activities focused on STEM, including building a small, self-driving robot that senses changes in light.

SCHOOL SECURITY AND SAFETY SOLUTIONS SUMMIT

A multidisciplinary approach to school safety

OSBA is participating in a collaborative effort involving a multitude of education groups, mental health organizations and law enforcement agencies to address the issues surrounding the safety and security of Ohio's schools. Nearly 20 groups have committed to working together to make a difference for the schoolchildren in the state.

The organizations are planning the inaugural School Security and Safety Solutions Summit. This free event is designed for district teams, including administrators, board members, educators, school counselors, school psychologists, support staff, mental health professionals, parent leaders, and law enforcement and other first responders.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

by Jay Smith, deputy director of legislative services

General Assembly OKs education bills prior to summer break

During a busy week in the legislature, several bills impacting public education were passed by the General Assembly and are awaiting action by the governor.

Senate Bill 216

Senate Bill (SB) 216, the Ohio Public School Deregulation Act, was passed out of the House Education and Career Readiness Committee with several amendments. The following changes passed both the full House and Senate.

Academic distress commission report — The superintendent of public instruction is required to submit to the General Assembly by May 1, 2019, a report for each academic distress commission in existence on that date and include recommendations for improvement.

Operation of e-schools — The requirement for the automatic withdrawal of a student after 105 consecutive hours of unexcused absence was changed to require the withdrawal after 72 hours of such absences. A management company will be required to indemnify a charter school for financial losses if there is a business or family relationship between officers or employees of the management company and officers or employees of the school's governing authority. The state superintendent also will be required to make recommendations to the Joint Continued on page 5

Reasonable Suspicion Training

OSBA is offering a reasonable suspicion drug and alcohol training program for supervisors. Completion of this course is required for all supervisors of safety-sensitive (commercial driver's license) drivers, including school bus drivers. Best practice is that each district have at least two administrators trained in this requirement.

The course meets the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration U.S. Department of Transportation requirements. Attendees will receive a certificate of completion.

Details: This workshop is being offered on two dates from 10 a.m. to noon at the OSBA office. Choose from Tuesday, July 10, or Tuesday, Aug. 7.

Cost: $50

Registration: Online at www.ohioschoolboards.org/workshops or contact Laurie Miller, senior events manager, at (614) 540-4000, (800) 589-OSBA or Lmiller@ ohioschoolboards.org

Education Oversight Committee about alternatives and options to address such issues as the documentation of online learning, idle time and participation.

College Credit Plus (CCP) textbooks — Unfortunately, the proposal to have families above 200% of the federal poverty level guideline share the cost of textbooks with a school district was removed from the bill. However, language in the bill does require ODE to conduct a study on the results and effectiveness of the CCP program.

Deadline to submit district fiveyear forecast — A board of education could not be required to submit its five-year forecast prior

OSBA Contract Analysis Service

OSBA provides a cost-effective professional analysis of both certified and classified collective bargaining agreements. These written reviews serve as a critique of current contract provisions, suggest potential pitfalls regarding legal compliance and provide specific recommendations as you go into your next round of collective bargaining.

Contact Van D. Keating at (614) 540-4000 or (800) 589-OSBA for more information. to Nov. 30 of any fiscal year. The deadline currently is Oct. 31.

Excused student absences — During the floor debate in the House, an amendment was accepted that removed a provision that allowed a school district or school to consider only that student's unexcused absences when determining if a student is "excessively absent", rather than both excused and unexcused absences as under current law.

Moratorium for charter schools and school districts with 10% enrollment increase due to enrolling students of a suspended e-school — For any charter school experiencing a 10% enrollment increase due to the suspension of operations of a computer-based school, the student performance will be excluded from the average daily membership when calculating the academic performance component of the sponsor's evaluation. A charter school also will be exempt from closure through the 2019-20 school year if its enrollment increased by more than 10% due to the enrollment of displaced students from a suspended e-school. In addition, school districts that also experience the 10% enrollment increase because of displaced students during the 2017-18 school year cannot be considered as challenged school districts through the 2019-20 school year. Note: An amendment in House Bill (HB) 87 changes the percentage enrollment increase from 10% to 20% (see HB 87 update).

House Bill 87

HB 87 underwent several changes in the Senate Education Committee before being passed by the General Assembly. The bill provides ODE with specific guidance on distributing funds returned to the state from a charter school as the result of a finding for recovery from the state auditor. If money is returned because of an audit of a charter school's enrollment records, the bill requires ODE to credit the money to the state education aid funding of the public school district from which the funds initially were diverted.

Following are additions to HB 87: • Requires the superintendent of public instruction to establish, by rule, standards for learning management software to be used by internet- or computer-based charter schools (e-schools).

• Current law requires the superintendent of public instruction to jointly develop a policy with the state auditor on the reduction of payments to an e-school when materials are not timely delivered. Language in this bill specifies that the auditor only consult with the state superintendent on the adoption of payment reduction policies.

• The bill changes the SB 216 exemption so that it applies only to a charter school whose enrollment increases by 20% due to displaced enrollees, rather than 10%. HB 87 also clarifies that if the charter school would qualify for closure without the addition of the Continued on page 6

Students help Hamilton-area businesses solve problems

Students from Hamilton City and New Miami Local (Butler) are helping local businesses solve problems this summer during a free, eight-week course taught by community and business leaders.

The new Youth LED (Leadership Empowerment Development) program gives students in grades nine through 12 experiences in the workplace and helps prepare them for future jobs and careers.

"The best way that any of today's youth are going to know what's out there and what they might want to do is to get some idea of what things are," Dave Lippert, president of Hamilton Caster & Manufacturing Co., told a local newspaper. "If they never see the inside of a manufacturing company or an office ... they have no idea what's there in terms of job opportunities, education required and all that kind of stuff."

Students are learning problemsolving, critical-thinking and creativity skills. Employers host students for half a day where they learn about the business. Students then are presented a challenge unique to the company to work on.

The Greater Hamilton Chamber of Commerce, Junior Achievement and Hamilton Young People Empowered (HYPE) partnered to provide Youth LED, a first-of-itskind program in Hamilton, according to chamber President and CEO Dan Bates. Source: Journal-News displaced students, the exemption will not apply.

• Specifies that the school district superintendent or school board president (instead of the district treasurer) must sign for the district documents related to the employment and salary of the treasurer or any member of the treasurer's family. The treasurer may still sign the documents related to the treasurer's employment in the treasurer's personal capacity. • Authorizes a school board to propose a ballot question to substitute an emergency levy at a future election in the year after the emergency levy expires (the last year of collection for the emergency levy).

• Allows school districts and other political subdivisions to enter into agreements with other political subdivisions to procure or contract for providers of medical or health services. Current law, unchanged by the bill, already allows political subdivisions to join together to establish a joint self-insurance program to provide health care benefits.

Other legislation that has completed its journey through the General Assembly includes HB 318, which seeks to improve and increase school safety and security. The bill establishes specialized training for school resource officers in addition to funding for school safety grants. The bill was amended while in the Senate to include the Supporting Alternatives for Fair Education, (SAFE) Act (SB 246). That bill is aimed at keeping students with disciplinary concerns in school by limiting out-of-school suspensions and expulsions and promoting positive behavioral interventions and supports.
