

BRIEF CASE

THE OHIO SCHOOL BOARDS ASSOCIATION

Serving the public school leadership team

It's time to get ready for School Board Recognition Month

January is School Board Recognition Month in Ohio. OSBA created a Web-based resource kit to help districts recognize their board members. The kit, posted at <http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/60187>, includes tips for honoring board members and many other resources. Districts are urged to submit articles and photos of their activities to OSBA, which will feature them online and in the Journal magazine. OSBA also will send each district personalized certificates to present to board members. Submit articles and photos to Crystal Davis Hutchins at cdavishutchins@ohioschoolboards.org or 8050 N. High St., Suite 100, Columbus, OH 43235. You also can submit materials online at www.ohioschoolboards.org/forms/sbrm.php.

Thousands take part in 57th annual Capital Conference

Nearly 10,000 school district leaders, staff, students and guests celebrated four days of learning, sharing and fellowship in Columbus last month at the 57th annual OSBA Capital Conference and Trade Show. Attendance at the Nov. 11-14 education convention — the nation's second-largest — was 9,422. In addition to hundreds of learning sessions, the conference featured world-class keynote presenters and the largest education trade exhibition in the U.S. See the next issue of the OSBA Journal for complete coverage. Next year's conference is set for Nov. 10-13.

Five school board members earn OSBA's highest honor

OSBA recognized members of the 2012 All-Ohio School Board during last month's Capital Conference. The recognition is the association's most prestigious honor. Earning the distinction were: Nancy Decker, Springfield Local (Lucas); Jaynie Lambert, Fairbanks Local (Union) and Tolles Career & Technical Center; Sue Steele, Goshen Local (Clermont) and Great Oaks ITCD; Doug G. Stuart, Rittman EV and Wayne County Schools Career Center; and W. Bryce Watt, Muskingum Valley ESC.

Franklin City's Feltner chosen as 2013 OSBA president-elect

The OSBA Delegate Assembly elected Jo Ann W. Feltner, Franklin City, as OSBA's 2013 president-elect during its annual business meeting at the November Capital Conference. A 15-year board member, she will become OSBA president in 2014, following her term as president-elect. Current president-elect Charlie Wilson, Worthington City, becomes president on Jan. 1, 2013.

Campaign (DQC). Ohio met eight of the 10 criteria DQC uses to assess states' work in using data systems to support teaching and learning. The assessments put a strong focus on efforts that link key data on K-12, higher education and the workforce, as well as the extent to which states make that data public and use it in student-level progress reports. DQC is a Washington-based nonprofit, nonpartisan, national advocacy group that supports state policymakers and other leaders in developing and effectively using statewide longitudinal data systems. Springfield students make commitment to community service

More than 100 Springfield Local (Lucas) students took advantage of a day off school to volunteer in their community.

Classes were canceled at Springfield High School for a teacher in-service day in November. Students used the chance to help put up holiday decorations at a local nursing home and complete other volunteer work. The effort was coordinated by Students In Action, a student-led group that encourages community service.

"Our main objective is to help out in the community," student Azaree Whitehead told a local newspaper.

The group said nearly a quarter of all students enrolled at the high school have volunteered for community service this school year, and the goal is to log 15,000 hours of total volunteer work.

those who have had a tremendous impact on public education. OSBA President Sharon E. Manson, Waverly City and Pike County Career Technology Center, presented Adams with the award last month during the Capital Conference. He was recognized for his commitment to education, including his role in the annual Science Alliance, a science fair that draws nearly 900 high school students and educators to the southern Ohio diffusion plant each year. The science fair focuses on topics related to STEM — science, technology, engineering and mathematics.

OSBA leads the way to educational excellence by serving Ohio's public school board members and the diverse districts they represent through superior service and creative solutions.

This month in OSBA history

On Dec. 31, 1969, OSBA's first executive director retired.

Dr. Lewis E. Harris had led the association since its founding in 1955. The OSBA Board of Trustees named Dr. Willard "Bill" Fox, a Bowling Green State University professor, as Harris' successor.

SchoolComp Safety Seminar

Nonviolent responses to difficult people

Friday, Dec. 14
OSBA office, Columbus

Cost: $145
9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

This annual safety seminar will focus on nonviolent responses to difficult people and allow employers to meet the two-hour Ohio Bureau of Workers' Compensation safety training requirement. The training will combine presentations with practical scenarios and techniques to effectively deal with personal confrontations and maintain a personal defense strategy. Topics include an overview of nonviolent strategies; a review of strategies for conflict resolution; recognizing crisis behaviors; and practical skills to cope with safety issues.

Agenda

|-------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 8:30 a.m. | Registration |
| 9 a.m. | Introduction to nonviolent strategies
Statistical review of workplace violence issues, locations where you are most vulnerable and methods to minimize potential violence. |
| 10:10 a.m. | Strategies for prevention rather than reaction; conflict resolution; and verbal and nonverbal communication
Review the main causes of conflict, what escalates conflicts, six steps to conflict resolution, communication and listening skills, and nonverbal signs. |
| 12:30 p.m. | Lunch |
| 1 p.m. | Recognizing and identifying crisis behaviors
Learn the signs of anger; common triggers to anger; levels of anger; appropriate interventions for each level of anger; and self-protection tips. |
| 3 p.m. | Practical skills to cope with personal fears, safety issues and physical interventions
Learn about fear and the panic/fear relationship; the body's reactions to fear; and methods to defuse potential violence. Rehearse and practice various personal safety techniques, such as blocking and escaping from grabs, bites and hair pulls. |

The seminar will be led by William D. Healy and Susan Rance-Locke. Healy is a career law enforcement officer who was a member of the law enforcement community for more than 29 years. He was a member of the Ohio State Highway Patrol for nearly 25 years, served as a lieutenant at the Ohio State Highway Patrol Training Academy for more than five years and was in charge of all Highway Patrol recruit and in-service training programs.

A career law enforcement officer who served with the Ohio State Highway Patrol for more than 28 years prior to her retirement in 2010, Rance-Locke was the employee development commander in the Office of Training; director of administration at the Ohio State Highway Patrol Training Academy; an investigator for the internal affairs section; labor relations officer in the HRM section; academy instructor; and trooper assigned to the Chardon Highway Patrol Post.

You do not have to be a participant in the SchoolComp Group Rating or Retro Rating programs to attend this seminar. You can register on the Ohio Association of School Business Officials website at www.oasbo-ohio.org or by calling (614) 431-9116.

New board members: Trying to maneuver the maze of boardmanship? Find your way at the New Board Member Workshop

- Designed for new board members
- Intensive, one-day workshop
- Plenty of networking opportunities
- Saturday, Jan. 12, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m
- OSBA office, Columbus

School boardmanship is more complex and demanding than ever. To carry out their leadership duties effectively, new school board members must move from the role of an involved citizen to that of a responsible elected official as soon as possible. High-quality board member education, designed specifically for newly elected board members, can help you become a more effective educational leader in your community.

This intensive workshop will focus on:

- the world of boardmanship
- communicating effectively
- board policy 101
- how Ohio schools are funded
- collective bargaining and employee relations issues
- the Sunshine Law and executive sessions

Cost for the workshop is $160 per board member. Four books are included with workshop tuition: Boardmanship, Board-Treasurer Partnership, Board-Superintendent Partnership and Board-Legislature Partnership.

To register, call (614) 540-4000 or (800) 589-OSBA or register online at www.ohioschoolboards.org/event_listing.

Become a better board leader

Attend the Board Presidents Workshop

Two dates and four locations to choose from:

- Saturday, Jan. 26, at the OSBA office in Columbus or Owens Community College in Findlay
- Saturday, Feb. 2, at the Dayton Marriott in Dayton or Northeast Ohio Medical University in Rootstown

The workshops run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

These workshops, led by experienced OSBA staff, will present all the tools you need to improve your boardmanship skills and effectively lead your district. You don't have to be the board president to attend; board members looking to increase their leadership skills also can benefit.

School board presidents serve critical leadership roles in their districts. The president is the visible leader of the board and responsible for the efficient and legal operation of board business.

Unfortunately, too many board presidents attempt to fulfill these roles by going it alone and feel that on-the-job training is all they need to responsibly lead the board. It is crucial to you and a benefit to your school district to be well-informed and skillful enough to carry out your leadership duties effectively. Bring your questions about leadership roles.

Topics to be covered include legal issues affecting board members; effective board meetings; using parliamentary procedure effectively; dealing with controversy and public participation; open meetings and executive sessions; successful communications; working as a team; consensus building; indicators of an effective board; and networking with your colleagues.

Cost for the workshop is $160 per board member, and includes a copy of the Board Presidents' Handbook. To register, contact Laurie Miller, senior events manager, at (614) 540-4000, (800) 589-OSBA or Lmiller@ohioschoolboards.org. You can register online at www.ohioschoolboards.org/event_listing.

Correction

The “Regional Roundup” article in the Nov. 5 Briefcase incorrectly listed the Northwest Region All-Ohio School Board honoree on page 7. The article should have said the 2012 All-Ohio School Board winner from that region is Nancy Decker, Springfield Local (Lucas).

The “Regional Roundup” article in the Nov. 5 Briefcase omitted one of the OSBA Northeast Region past presidents honored at the region’s fall conference. Marie D. LEGISLATIVE REPORT

by Michelle Francis, deputy director of legislative services

OSBA shares its concerns on report card, accountability bill

The Ohio General Assembly recently returned for an extremely busy lame-duck session. One of the top priorities is House Bill (HB) 555, which will make changes to Ohio’s report card and accountability system. The bill is on the fast track and expected to move quickly through the process.

When the House Education Committee returned after the November elections, they immediately introduced a 150-plus-page substitute version of the bill before taking time off for the Thanksgiving holiday. The committee then returned at the end of the month to make final changes to the bill. The full House passed the bill on Nov. 29 by a vote of 58-27.

OSBA, along with the Buckeye Association of School Administrators, Ohio Association of School Business Officials and Alliance for High Quality Education, testified jointly on HB 555 before the House Education Committee. Our testimony highlighted the positive changes to Ohio’s report card system contained in the bill, as well as troublesome provisions that will have a negative effect on school districts. A copy of the testimony is available on the OSBA BillTracker website at www.ohio.schoolboards.org/legislative.

HB 555 now moves to the Senate for consideration. We have sent out multiple calls to action urging school board members, superintendents, treasurers and other school administrators to contact their legislators about this bill.

While there are a number of provisions in the legislation that we support, there are several issues that still concern us. We are sharing the following points with senators and requesting the following changes.

While the bill includes a small transition period (in an attempt to allow for implementation of the Common Core Standards), it begins to make changes within the current school year. This changes the rules in the middle of the game and before implementation of the new Common Core Standards and testing protocols. OSBA believes changes to the report card system should not begin until the next school year (2013-2014).

Some items on the proposed list of measures — or “dashboard” — are beyond the control of school districts, and some districts may not have the necessary resources to excel in those areas. These items should be for information-only purposes. The information may be valuable for the district, parents and even state policymakers, but districts should not be penalized through a letter grade for the following components:

- Advanced Placement participation rate and test scores;
- Dual Enrollment Program participation rate;
- national standardized test for college admission — the participation rate and average score;
- kindergarten through third-grade literacy rate.

The bill postpones the implementation of a “composite” or “overall” score for the dashboard, but only for two years. OSBA opposes the use of a composite score, both during the transition and in the future, because:

- Using a composite score — especially with an increasing number of components on the dashboard — gives the casual observer an unrealistic and distorted view of what is really happening in the school district or building. It also diminishes the importance of each variable in the dashboard.

- Each component of the dashboard may have different significance among districts and communities. It would be impossible to determine an appropriate “weight” for each component in a composite score calculation that satisfies the needs and preferences in every community across the state.

- Blending the scores into one overall score fails to demonstrate any link between one component and another, thereby rendering an “average” of all the components irrelevant and misleading.

The bill makes changes to the report card related to proficiency tests and districts’ rates of success for students passing the tests. Movement to the Common Core Standards and the anticipated implementation of correlating Partnership for Assessment of Readiness for College and Careers (PARCC) assessments are expected to result in an increase in the “cut score” for students to pass the tests. HB 555 raises the benchmark standard that districts must meet to be considered successful from 75% to 80%.

These changes would occur as the Common Core Standards are being implemented, and the more compiled by Bryan Bullock, assistant editor

Marlington Local debuts innovative oil and gas school program

In an effort to prepare students for careers in an emerging Ohio industry, Marlington Local (Stark) has rolled out the state's first gas and oil technology program for high school students.

Nearly two dozen Marlington High School juniors and seniors are enrolled in the first-year program, which is receiving attention from other school districts, as well as oil and gas businesses.

The program provides students

90 minutes of daily instruction designed to prepare them for entry-level careers in the gas and oil industry. After receiving several months of instruction, students in the class are allowed to leave school early for work if they are employed in a related industry.

Student T.J. Mathes, 18, hopes the class will prepare him for a rewarding career.

"I want to work my way up (in the industry)," Mathes told a local newspaper.

The program teaches students practical skills, such as how to operate a forklift, as well as the soft skills needed for employment. The district is covering the cost of the class. Instructor Bob Givens said Marlington has big aspirations for the program.

"The ultimate goal is to develop a curriculum and use it elsewhere," Givens said, as well as to "give students a leg up on everyone else."

rigorous content will definitely increase the difficulty of the tests. We understand the need to set high expectations. However, the simultaneous convergence of these three factors — more rigorous curriculum; new and more challenging assessments; and higher cut scores — has the potential to devastate students and districts unnecessarily. The movement of the 75% standard to 80% should be removed from the bill.

Additionally, raising the cut score and benchmark standard for the percentage of students passing at the same time will undermine the ability to make comparisons about the results of the increased rigor that will come with the Common Core Standards and the current curriculum. Apples to apples comparisons, year over year, will be impossible.

Because of the report card reform provisions in the bill, school districts are very likely to see diminished results in their report card ratings. This could lead to an increase in the number of buildings and districts falling under the provisions for students to qualify for the EdChoice voucher program and charter school eligibility (challenged school district designation). School districts performing at continuous improvement status or above in the current school year should not be subject to losing students to the EdChoice voucher program or new charter school start-ups for three years.
