DeMaria returns to ODE as Ohio's 38th state superintendent

Paolo DeMaria assumed the helm at the Ohio Department of Education (ODE) as state superintendent of public instruction June 27. "It's an exciting time for education in Ohio, and I look forward to engaging with our families, teachers, administrators, policymakers and advocates to help guide our work at the department," DeMaria said in a press release. The well-respected education policy expert comes to ODE from Education First Consulting. He also served as Ohio Board of Regents executive vice chancellor, an ODE associate superintendent, budget director for Gov. George V. Voinovich and chief policy adviser for Gov. Bob Taft.

Report: Ohio children's well-being drops; nearly 1 in 4 live in poverty

Ohio's child well-being ranking has slipped to 26, falling to the bottom half of the states for the first time since 2012, according to the Annie E. Casey Foundation's 2016 Kids Count Data Book. The book rates well-being in four areas: economic, education, health, and family and community. It showed Ohio's child poverty rate at 23%, a figure that has changed little for several years. Thirty-one percent of Ohio kids live in families lacking secure employment and 14% live in high-poverty areas. The study's bright spots included declines in teen birth rates, drug and alcohol use and students not graduating on time. For details, visit <http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/64733>.

Doctors' group backs later school start times to allow teens more sleep

The American Medical Association has adopted a policy to encourage later school start times to allow students to get sufficient sleep. The policy specifically calls on school districts across the U.S. to implement middle and high school start times no earlier than 8:30 a.m. The policy also encourages physicians to educate parents, school administrators, teachers and others about the importance of sleep for adolescent mental and physical health based on their proven biological needs.

Special group registration rate returns for 2016 OSBA Capital Conference

A special Capital Conference group rate for school districts means that the more people a district sends to Columbus, the lower the per-person cost. When more than six people from a member school district register, the cost is a flat fee of $1,850 for an unlimited number of registrants. The individual registration rate is $295. The conference runs Nov. 13-16. For details, visit <http://conference.ohioschoolboards.org>.

Public Charter Schools, National Association of Charter School Authorizers and the 50-State Campaign for Achievement Now. Part of the study focuses on Ohio — along with California and Pennsylvania — as one of the “big three” for full-time virtual charter school enrollment. It said these states enroll more than half of the nation’s full-time virtual charter students. The report noted Ohio has particularly high limits on the number and size of online schools and cited the Electronic Classroom of Tomorrow, with more than 15,000 students, and Ohio Virtual Academy, with nearly 11,000 students, as examples. The report is posted at <http://links.ohio.schoolboards.org/74506>.

Pig-kissing fundraiser excites northeast Ohio students

A fundraiser held by students at Springfield Local’s (Summit) Spring Hill Junior High School didn’t involve candy or cookie dough. Pickles the pig was the moneymaker.

Students gathered in the gym for a chance to give Pickles a smooch. They spent a $1 for a kiss, or even better, for a staff member to kiss the pig.

Prior to the fun day fundraiser, Pickles came to the school to visit with students.

The pig’s owner, Tracy Chapman, took her pet to a special needs class where a blind student got to pet Pickles.

“Animals are so therapeutic,” Chapman told a local newspaper. “I wish we could have a program with animals in the school.”

New board members — Get up to speed quickly!

Don't miss the New Board Member Workshop

Saturday, July 16
OSBA office in Columbus

9 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Cost $160

School board service is more complex and demanding than ever. To carry out their leadership duties effectively, new school board members must move as soon as possible from the role of involved citizen to that of responsible elected official. High-quality board member education, designed specifically for newly elected board members, can help you become a more effective educational leader in your community.

This intensive workshop will focus on the world of boardmanship, board policy, Ohio public school funding, operational issues, the Sunshine Law and appropriate uses for executive sessions. Cost for this workshop is $160 per board member. Four books are included with workshop tuition: "Boardmanship," "Board-Treasurer Partnership," "Board-Superintendent Partnership" and "Board-Legislature Partnership."

New Board Member Workshop: How's it going so far?

Thursday, July 21
OSBA office, Columbus

6 p.m. to 9 p.m.
Cost is $90

In all likelihood, you've now attended several board meetings. You and perhaps another colleague or two are the new kids on the block. How's it going? Many new school board members attended one of four regional OSBA New Board Member Academies in January and have had time to put some of that new knowledge into action. The OSBA Division of School Board Services would like to learn about your experience so far, assist with ongoing issues or help smooth out some of the bumps you've come across along the way.

This workshop will offer an overview of board member best practices and several interactive scenarios for discussion. It also will provide you with an opportunity to work through your questions on parliamentary procedure, public records and the Sunshine Law. There will be time to ask questions and share how OSBA can be of better service to you and your district. Now that you have actually been on the job, check in to reinforce your learning.

Agenda

6 p.m.	Welcome and dinner
6:15 p.m.	Board member best practices and interactive scenarios
7:30 p.m.	Break
7:45 p.m.	Parliamentary procedure, public records and the Sunshine Law

OSBA lobbies congressional reps during D.C. conference

OSBA's Federal Relations Network (FRN) members recently traveled to Washington, D.C., to take part in the National School Boards Association's (NSBA) Advocacy Institute, held June 12 through June 14. Originally scheduled in January, the institute had to be postponed until June due to a blizzard that hit the capital.

FRN is composed of local school board members appointed by OSBA to lobby their members of Congress on federal education issues. The focus of the Advocacy Institute and Ohio's FRN centers on building year-round advocacy for public education and local school board governance in the public, legal and legislative arenas.

Twenty-four Ohio FRN members, accompanied by several OSBA staff members, joined more than 600 other school board members from across the country to participate in the institute. The event culminated with NSBA's Day on Capitol Hill, when FRN members met with congressional representatives to discuss key federal legislative issues. These legislative priorities included: The Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) implementation, Child Nutrition Act reauthorization, Carl

D. Perkins Career and Technical Education Act reauthorization and federal investments in education.

FRN members heard from a variety of speakers at the institute, including NSBA leaders and the association's legal, legislative and public advocacy experts; political strategists; and key members of Congress. Speakers offered a range of insights, providing attendees a

Rep. Todd Rokita (R-Ind.); CNN Senior Analyst Jeffrey Toobin; and Dr. Larry Sabato, director of the University of Virginia Center for Politics.

OSBA members attended a breakfast meeting with Sens. Rob

Portman (R-Ohio) and Sherrod Brown (D-Ohio) and lobbied other Ohio members of Congress to ensure that ESSA implementation efforts secure balanced local-state-federal partnerships; maximize the flexibility provisions of the law; and support school districts with technical assistance and compliance resources.

Members also urged Congress to ensure ESSA is implemented in a manner that recognizes the law's clear directive to restore local governance and community ownership in public education and provide an opportunity for local school board members to provide input on nonregulatory guidance and proposed regulations. The U.S. Department of Education is in the process of designing regulations to implement the law.

On the Child Nutrition Act reauthorization, FRN members urged Congress to grant flexibility and relief for school districts to successfully administer school meal programs. This includes increasing flexibility for school districts in addressing whole grain content and sodium reduction targets. Members also lobbied to include the school board perspective in policy and implementation by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

In discussing the Carl D. Perkins Career and Technical Education Act reauthorization, FRN members lobbied for Congress to provide the necessary

Buses turned lunchrooms deliver food to students in need

When the school bus arrives at Christina Staples' apartment complex in West Chester, her three children know it's lunchtime.

For the first time, Lakota Local (Butler) is experimenting with a summer mobile lunch program for children already eligible under the district's free and reduced-price lunch program during the school year.

"It helps out financially, and I know they have someplace to eat lunch each day," Staples, a single mother, told a local newspaper. "It's very nutritional for them, and it gives me more study time."

Of Lakota Local's 16,500 students, more than 3,500 families qualify for the subsidized program through the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Lakota Local estimates it will serve more than 200,000 meals during the summer. The modified buses make seven stops.

"We have a variety of food choices for them, and it's going well," Kelly Crumb, the district's assistant director of child nutrition, said.

In many low-income families, both parents or a single parent work and may not be around to provide lunch, according to those who oversee the program.

Lakota Local has seen a nearly 30% increase in the number of students participating in the free and reduced lunch program since the 2008-09 school year.

support to school districts to ensure all students have access to high-quality career and technical education programs with strong academic components and credentialing.

OSBA believes education funding should be the highest federal priority to ensure students have the opportunity to meet today's challenges and promote excellence in public education. In supporting that, FRN members urged Congress to appropriate federal investments in education that will improve equity in educational opportunity; maximize the federal share of special education aid to help districts and states address the cost of educating children under the requirements of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act without displacing resources from other education priorities; and ensure the requirements of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act are fully funded, as authorized in ESSA.

In addition to the Advocacy Institute, NSBA sponsored an Equity Symposium June 10. The symposium provided a forum for school board members to examine and discuss strategies, current trends, research and best practices that are improving educational outcomes for academically and economically disadvantaged students in traditional public schools. Discussions at the symposium helped school board members increase their knowledge and skills around issues of access, equity and diversity in public education.

FRN members will continue advocating throughout the year for public education in Ohio and working with their members of Congress to achieve that goal. For more information on federal advocacy, please contact OSBA's Division of Legislative Services.
