Veteran journalist Dan Rather confirmed for Capital Conference

Former “CBS Evening News” anchor and “60 Minutes” correspondent Dan Rather will be one of the keynote presenters at the 2011 OSBA Capital Conference and Trade Show in November. The veteran newsman will address the third general session on Nov. 16. The conference, one of the premier education conventions in the nation, runs Nov. 13-16 at the Greater Columbus Convention Center. Watch OSBA’s website and publications for further updates on speakers and programs.

Missouri school boards group collecting donations for Joplin schools

The Missouri School Boards’ Association is soliciting funds to help the Joplin School District following the deadly tornado that devastated the city on May 22. The district sustained catastrophic damage to at least 10 buildings, with loss estimates topping $100 million. About 60% of the district’s 8,000 students are displaced from their homes. Donations can be sent to MSBA FutureBuilders, Joplin Assistance Challenge Fund at 2100 I-70 Drive S.W., Columbia, MO 65203. Contributions are tax deductible and 100% of the donations will be sent to the Joplin School District.

OSBA gives fact sheets to legislators to influence state budget debate

As part of its public awareness campaign and lobbying efforts, OSBA is issuing a series of fact-filled fliers to state lawmakers promoting public school successes. The fact sheets use charts and bullet points to urge increased support for public education and demonstrate Ohio schools’ importance to the state’s future success. The fliers are posted at www.ohioschoolboards.org/quick-facts-about-ohio-public-schools.

Military study: National security depends on supporting education

In a recent report, “A National Strategic Narrative,” Marine Col. Mark Mykleby and Navy Capt. Wayne Porter argue that U.S. national security strategy must move from “containment” to “sustainment.” The officers, now special strategic assistants to the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, call for the first priority of a “sustainment” strategy to be the “intellectual capital and a sustainable infrastructure of education, health and social services to provide for the continuing development and growth of America’s youth.” Download the report at <http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/64575>.

NSBA launches campaign to deregulate federal programs

Recognizing that there will be no more federal stimulus funding, the National School Boards Association (NSBA) and American Association of School Administrators (AASA) are calling for regulatory relief from Elementary and Secondary Education Act mandates. Congress’ reauthorization of the act is more than three years overdue. The

Honda offers grants in exchange for volunteer time

In the Honda Hero Program, Honda associates, spouses and retirees volunteer to support the community programs of their choice. Honda rewards these volunteer hours with Dollars for Doers, $250 grants made to eligible, nonprofit groups. The grants are made once an individual has volunteered 50 hours to one organization within a 12-month period. Nearly 1,800 members of the Honda family are enrolled in the program and have

Year-end locker cleanup goes green

When the last day of school rolls around, students finally have to clean out their lockers. In years past, kids would keep what they needed to take home and dump everything else in the trash.

But, stashed away among moldy sandwiches, stinky gym clothes and other detritus of the school year are tons of paper that can be recycled. Perrysburg EV, along with several community partners, conducts a year-end recycling program to keep all that paper from students' lockers and teachers' rooms from ending up in a landfill.

The city of Bowling Green loans the district large rolling curbside bins to collect the paper. Community Employment Services of Wood Lane drops off and picks up the bins, which are taken to the Bowling Green Recycling Center for processing.

This month in OSBA history

A section of the state budget bill enacted in June 1995 changed the name of county offices of education to educational service centers (ESCs) and required some county offices to merge by June 1, 1997. OSBA worked closely with ESCs to help them comply with the new requirement and increase their value as service providers.

OSBA offers reduced rate for facilitated summer retreats

Remember the days when the summer break meant a long vacation? For most board members and administrators, the summers have become useful for getting work done. Perhaps that work is accomplished in a more "dressed down" atmosphere with the fans blowing, but the work doesn't stop! Tasks associated with evaluation and assessment of the past year's work and planning for the next are often prominent in June, July and August.

Summer board retreats provide the opportunity to discuss certain topics in greater depth, address challenges, get to know administrative team members better, discuss new ideas or projects, or rework processes that need board review or feedback.

The OSBA Division of School Board Services is pleased to present a new opportunity for members this summer only. During July and August, OSBA will offer districts professional facilitation of your leadership team's summer retreat. Priced significantly less than our normal customized workshop, an OSBA board services consultant will work with your board and superintendent to outline and facilitate a three-hour agenda that will help you be fully ready for the new school year. Districts that schedule their facilitated summer retreat during July or August may do so for the reduced rate of only $600.

Should you wish to discuss or book your board's summer retreat using OSBA's professional facilitators, please call OSBA at (614) 540-4000 or (800) 589-OSBA while openings are still available.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

by Michelle Francis, lobbyist

OSBA testifies on ammended biennial budget bill

Recently, the Senate Finance Committee accepted a new substitute version of the state's biennial budget bill, Substitute House Bill (HB) 153. Several changes were made to the House version of the bill, including the addition of $115 million for primary and secondary education over the next two years.

However, K-12 education will lose about $2.8 billion over the biennium with the loss of the Tangible Personal Property (TPP) Tax replacement payments and the loss of the federal stimulus dollars. District-by-district simulations of the Senate version are available by visiting OSBA's BillTracker Web page at www.ohioschoolboards.org/129th-general-assembly and searching "HB 153."

Of the $115 million added by the Senate, about $85 million would pay for a state foundation aid guarantee. The guarantee would be based on fiscal year (FY) 2011 state basic aid funding (excluding federal stimulus dollars). About 162 districts would benefit from the state "hold harmless" in FY 12 and 171 would benefit in FY 13.

The other $30 million is marked as an incentive for districts rated "Excellent" or "Excellent with Distinction" on the state report card. These districts would get an additional $17 per pupil. A list of these districts and their amounts also is available on the HB 153 BillTracker page.

In addition to funding changes, the Senate made significant policy changes to the bill, including:

- creating the special education voucher program;
- removing several community (charter) school expansion provisions added by the House;
- including gifted education students' performance in new district performance and expenditure reports;
- removing teacher evaluation, merit pay and reduction-in-force provisions added by the House.
- restoring a modified version of Healthcare Pooling provisions.
- authorizing school districts to levy a combined property/income tax.

While the Senate removed most of the charter school provisions added by the House, they also added their own provisions related to school choice:

- removes House provisions that grant charter school operators new authority and allows them to be for-profit entities if they provide programmatic oversight and support to a community school;
- removes House provisions exempting charter schools from state laws;

- removes changes to law regarding charter school governing authorities and operator contracts with governing authorities;
- removes House provisions allowing a for-profit entity to sponsor charter schools;
- prohibits a charter school sponsor from selling any goods or services to a school sponsored by the sponsor;
- removes provision allowing the establishment of charter schools without sponsors;
- removes provision prohibiting entities from refusing to sponsor certain charter schools;
- removes provision making the renewal of a charter school sponsorship contract subject to approval by the school's operator;
- reinstates current law regarding the termination of sponsor contracts with charter schools;
- allows charter school sponsors to expand their sponsorship if 80% of their schools rank in the top 95% of all schools on the performance index for three years;
- allows any charter school rated in the top 50% on the state's performance index to be guaranteed a lease for $1 on school property that has been unused for two years;
- removes House language requiring school districts to cede

Salem students 'step up' for special needs students

A class of Salem City students recently used their woodworking talents to raise money for an outdoor education camp for special needs students.

Students in Salem High School's wood technology class, led by instructor Ken Peters, built step stools in the Stepping Up for Our Community project. They sold each stool for a $100 donation to the Columbiana County ESC Outdoor Education Program and presented donors with certificates of appreciation.

To raise the $4,000 needed to fund this year's camp, the students built 40 step stools, plus some extra stools to pay for stain, screws and the certificates. Three local residents donated the wood and some special tools.

The young woodworkers put in time after school and on weekends to build the stools. They developed a concept for the project, created a production plan, designed jigs and fixtures, assembled the stools and stained them.

The two-day outdoor camp, in its 25th year, is financed solely through donations. After hearing that funds were low this year, Peters and his students came forward to help.

"I think they deserve applause for this," ESC Outdoor Education Program Coordinator Susan Wenderoth told a local newspaper. "They did a wonderful job."

unused property to charter schools, while at the same requiring those with facilities not in use for two years to offer the right of first refusal to charter schools in the district for lease "at fair market value";

- expands definition of "challenged school district" for purposes of charters.

As previously mentioned, the Senate's version of the bill added special education vouchers. OSBA is adamantly opposed to the creation of the Special Education Voucher Program. We believe that the current system is designed to meet the individual needs of students and are concerned that the Special Education Voucher Program could result in undermining services for students. We shared our concerns when we presented joint testimony with the Ohio Association of School Business Officials and Buckeye Association of School Administrators to the Senate Finance Committee on the Senate's proposed changes.
