Beyond Surveys and Focus Groups: Engagement as a Partnership

Lessons from three years of intensive community engagement

Friday, July 31 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.
OSBA office, Columbus Cost is $150

Dive deep into lessons learned from a large suburban district’s community engagement initiative, then apply these lessons to your schools. Both large and small school districts can use these strategies to build small pockets of intimacy with community members to work together toward a shared purpose. Along the way, transform engagement from lip service to an essential part of whole-system change that challenges parents, staff and community members to be interdependent and collectively responsible for the future of their children’s public education. This highly interactive session will include a workbook and small group dialogue so participants can learn from each other and track their own engagement experiments.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. Register online at www.ohioschoolboards.org/workshops or contact Laurie Miller, senior events manager, at (614) 540-4000, (800) 589-OSBA or Lmiller@ohioschoolboards.org.

Senior Administrative Associate of Search Services Debby Hoopes retired from the association May 29 after serving OSBA for 10 years. Hoopes was a member of the Division of School Board Services.

During her decade at OSBA, she assisted with superintendent, treasurer and other administrator searches. Her duties included coordinating, processing, filing and updating search candidates’ files and information; compiling monthly division reports; preparing correspondence; and scheduling appointments and meetings for division personnel.

Hoopes said she greatly appreciated and enjoyed her time at OSBA, and will greatly miss the special bonds she enjoyed with her colleagues. She said she also will miss managing the Student Achievement Fair, both before and during the OSBA Capital Conference. While at OSBA, she ably organized, managed and participated in 11 Student Achievement Fairs, each of which featured 100 booths of student projects and programs, five student performing groups and a fine arts exhibit.

Hoopes has many great plans for her retirement. She looks forward to relaxing, spending more time with her husband, Bill, and not having to hear the alarm clock ring at 4:30 a.m. She also plans to explore new hiking trails in Delaware County with her Cairn terrier dogs, Lizzie and Skye. In addition, she looks forward to early morning rides on her horse, Tuffy, and visiting a local observatory. A cooking class and home projects also are planned.

OSBA thanks Hoopes for her hard work and dedication, and wishes her nothing but the best in the future.

The Ohio Senate unveiled its version of the biennial budget legislation, House Bill (HB) 64, on June 9. Following its introduction, the full Senate Finance Committee held three days of hearings on the changes made to the House’s proposed plan. OSBA jointly testified with the Buckeye Association of School Administrators (BASA) and Ohio Association of School Business Officials (OASBO) on June 11.

The following is a brief list of funding provisions and changes included in the Senate proposal. These provisions would:

- remove the House income adjusted chargeoff for the determination of the state/local share;
- reinstate the current State Share Index (SSI) calculation;
- reinstate, but modify, the current income adjustment to the SSI;
- retain the House gain cap percentage of 7.5%;
- retain the basic aid, gifted, special education, career-tech and poverty assistance per-pupil funding amounts from the executive and House versions;
- retain the pupil transportation funding formula from the executive and House versions;
- add supplemental funding that is not subject to the cap for transportation and technology for qualifying districts (based on low density);
- add incentive funding for graduation achievement and third-grade reading achievement that is not subject to the cap;
- permit career-tech funding to grow above the capped amount beginning in fiscal year (FY) 2017;
- retain the House capacity measure component of targeted assistance (the per-pupil/per-mill calculation), but reduce its strength from 5 mills to 2 mills;
- create an additional calculation to targeted assistance funding for districts with more than 10% of agriculture real property;
- retain the House per-pupil guarantee (guarantees minimum funding at 20% of basic aid amount), but phases it in at 15% in FY ’16 and 25% in FY ’17;
- increase ESC funding over the executive and House proposal to $35 per pupil per year;
- retain the planned executive phasewout of tangible personal property (TPP) and public utility tangible personal property (PUTPP) tax replacement payments, but retain the House TPP/PUTPP tax supplement that ensures districts will not receive less total state funding than in FY15 (combined state formula aid and TPP/PUTPP tax).

The impact of the school-funding formula changes proposed by the Senate version of HB 64 varies among districts across the state. OSBA, BASA and OASBO continue to support the House-proposed school-funding plan, as it more effectively addresses issues of disparity when fully funded (and in future years). It has been an important goal of our organizations for many years to seek a funding formula that provides all districts...

14-year-old girl graduates from southwest Ohio high school

A 14-year-old Springboro Community City student recently graduated from high school with honors. When she received her diploma on June 6, Emma Morris became the youngest graduate in the history of Springboro High School.

Emma earned a 4.0 GPA — which ranked her 20th in the class of 423 students. During her school career, she skipped three grades and scored a perfect 36 on the math portion of the ACT.

“She is a very motivated learner,” Principal Kyle Martin told a local newspaper.

Her parents said they knew she was gifted at an early age when she excelled in kindergarten and passed algebra when she was a 9-year-old.

“We decided we’d rather see her get B’s and be challenged than skate through, get A’s and get bored,” her father, Andrew Morris, said.

But, she never received lower than an A-.

Martin introduced Emma and another early graduate, Ally Watson, at a May 28 school board meeting, where both students received a round of applause.

Emma will begin attending Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology in Terre Haute, Ind., next month. She plans to study electrical engineering. Ally is going to Reed College in Portland, Ore., to study linguistics.

and their students with the resources necessary to provide quality educational opportunities.

After a thorough analysis by the Ohio Education Policy Institute (OEPI), the majority of district typology groups do better under the House proposal when fully funded compared to both the Senate and the executive proposals.

We continue to have significant concerns about the planned phaseout of the TPP and PUTPP tax replacement payments as well as the fiscal “cliff” some districts will face at the end of the biennium. While we support the protection of the TPP/PUTPP tax supplement, we have urged lawmakers to work toward a permanent solution.

Other parts of the Senate substitute bill that we oppose include provisions that would:

- eliminate February special elections and mandate a 65% down payment in advance for the estimated cost of a special election;
- retain the executive and House provision permitting community schools to propose a levy with authority from the resident school district board of education;
- allow students to attend College Credit Plus courses over the summer (no additional funding for these courses appears to be provided);
- remove the House-proposed study group on pupil transportation;
- require tiered zero-tolerance policies;
- increase the Jon Peterson Scholarship amount by 35%.

It is crucial that you contact your legislators immediately to let them know your views on the new version of the bill. A conference committee has convened, with a deadline of June 30 for getting the legislation to the governor’s office.

If you have questions, contact the OSBA Division of Legislative Services. For the latest updates, news and alerts, log into OSBA’s Billtracker page at www.ohioschoolboards.org/billtracker.
