

BRIEF CASE

THE OHIO SCHOOL BOARDS ASSOCIATION

Serving the public school leadership team

Voters ok highest percentage of school tax issues since 2000

Ohio voters approved 81 of the 110 school issues on the March 6 primary ballot. The statewide passage rate of 74% was the highest in more than a decade, according to OSBA records. The traditional passage rate is about 54%. What made the results even more remarkable is that voters approved 30 of the 57 new money requests on the ballot. Fifty-one of the 53 renewal issues passed. OSBA Executive Director Richard Lewis attributed the outstanding passage rate to the fiscal prudence districts have demonstrated to their communities in the wake of state school-funding cuts.

State auditor issues another major finding against a charter school

State Auditor Dave Yost, citing “booze, missing money, missing records and self-dealing,” has issued $929,850 in findings for recovery against the Dayton-area Richard Allen Academy charter schools and the management company operating them. In a press release, Yost said that many areas of concern, including conflicts of interest, were related to the CEO of the management company, the Institute of Management and Resources. As of Feb. 21, $888,411 of the findings for recovery remained unpaid.

NSBA Annual Conference coming up next month

The National School Boards Association Annual Conference is set for April 21-23 in Boston, with pre-conference sessions on April 20. Keynote speakers include CNN news anchor and special correspondent Soledad O’Brien; Sal Khan, founder of the Khan Academy; and Geoffrey Canada, president and CEO of the Harlem Children’s Zone. Ohio school districts and OSBA staff also will present sessions at the event. To learn more about the conference and its other great speakers and events, visit <http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/94541>.

Free forums focus on 2014-2015 changes to state academic standards

OSBA, the State Board of Education and the Ohio Educational Service Center Association have been hosting a series of regional forums on Ohio’s college and career readiness standards and the new state tests for social studies, English language arts, math and science that will be used beginning in the 2014-2015 school year. The free sessions, which run from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m., are being conducted at locations around the state. For more information, registration details, and dates and locations for the remaining forums, visit <http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/52373>.

BLI offers training for all levels of board experience

The OSBA Board Leadership Institute (BLI) provides a comprehensive curriculum of board development training for new board members and veterans alike. BLI is the only event in Ohio that offers training exclusively for school boards. This year's keynote speakers are Dr. Stephen M. Gavazzi, a professor of human development and family science at The Ohio State University and dean and director of the OSU Mansfield campus; and Ohio Superintendent of Public Instruction Stan W. Heffner. The

Soldier thanks Avon Lake kids for their kindness

The uncle of an Avon Lake City fourth-grader recently visited Westview Elementary School to thank the boy and his class for the packages they sent to him and his fellow soldiers in Iraq.

Filled with snacks, phone cards, toothpaste and other items, the packages totaled 200 pounds. They were collected by Alexander Lloyd and his classmates and shipped to Capt. Thomas Herman.

Lloyd, after finding out that several members of his uncle's unit had been killed and wounded, wanted to do something to help. He got pictures of his uncle from his aunt and took them with him as he and his classmates worked to collect items around the school.

Herman said that the packages, which arrived in Iraq over several days, were a complete surprise.

State Board members speak at OSBA Board of Trustees meeting

The OSBA Board of Trustees faced a packed agenda at its Jan. 21 meeting at the OSBA office in Columbus. The board is OSBA's official governing body and meets three times a year.

OSBA President Sharon E. Manson, Waverly City and Pike County Career Technology Center, led the meeting, which opened with the swearing in of the 2012 Board of Trustees and an introduction of new members to that board. The new trustees are: Ginger Baylor, Akron City; Eric Germann, Lincolnview Local (Van Wert); Albert Haberstroh, Trumbull County ESC; Hanifah Kambon, Columbus City; Gail Martindale, Cedar Cliff Local (Greene) and Greene County Career Center; Randy Reisling, South-Western City; and Lisa Sobecki, Toledo City.

Two State Board of Education members addressed the board: District 9 representative Michael L. Collins, a marketing executive and former Westerville City Board of Education member and former OSBA trustee, and District 6 representative Kristen E. McKinley, a staff attorney for the Ohio Association of Public School Employees.

Collins and McKinley told trustees that the State Board wants to reach out to local school board members to get their input on such key issues as the Ohio Teacher Evaluation System, Common Core and the new academic standards.

"When we can go to the legislature with information and backing from the field, it empowers public education," Collins said.

The State Board members stressed that school funding,

New location and format:

- 10:30 a.m.–2:30 p.m. — Learn about the latest legislative issues at the Renaissance Hotel, 50 N. 3rd St., Columbus
- 4:30 p.m.–6:30 p.m. — Reception with legislators at the Capital Club, 41 S. High St., Columbus

School district leaders from across Ohio have proven that we can make a difference! Your legislative involvement with House Bill 136, the private school voucher bill, has sent a strong message to state leaders. Let's keep up the momentum in support of public education with a strong showing at the annual State Legislative Conference!

Several key issues await your attention at this year's event:

- What's all the talk about shared services?
- The governor's proposed mid-year budget review bill — what's included?
- Is the voucher bill still a threat?
- Is there a new school-funding formula just waiting to be released?

Key legislators and members of the governor's office will discuss their views on these important issues and what can be expected in the coming months.

Board Leadership Institute

Organizational leadership for tomorrow's schools

April 13-14, 2012 • Hilton Columbus/Polaris, north Columbus

Benefits:

- ◆ Participate in a program designed exclusively for and by board members
- ◆ Experience a comprehensive two-day training event
- ◆ Hear nationally acclaimed speakers
- ◆ Strengthen board governance skills
- ◆ Choose from 18 different breakout sessions
- ◆ Network with other board members
- ◆ Receive a CD with all of the handouts from this board member-only event

Good decisions require informed decision makers

As a member of your school district's governing body, you are called on at every meeting to make decisions. Some decisions are easy; others complicated. So, what can be done to improve board member development?

Almost all board members agree that they could use more training in tackling school district problems. When asked how, board members say they want training that is highly task-oriented, takes a short period of time and is done in small groups led by outstanding instructors.

To meet these requests, OSBA worked with board members from across the state to develop the 11th annual Board Leadership Institute. The two-day workshop is specifically designed for board members and will focus on multiple topics. Participants will have the opportunity to hear keynote speakers, choose from among 18 breakout sessions and network with each other.

Twenty points will be awarded for attendance at the institute, which may be applied toward receiving OSBA's Award of Achievement and Master Board Member award.

Keynote speakers set the tone for BLI

BLI will kick off on Friday, April 13, with Dr. Stephen M. Gavazzi, a professor of human development and family science at The Ohio State University; dean and director of the university's Mansfield campus; and author of Strong Families, Successful Students: Helping teenagers reach their full academic potential. Gavazzi will share how to increase educational outcomes by building family strengths.

Ohio Superintendent of Public Instruction Stan W. Heffner will close BLI on Saturday, April 14. Hear from Heffner how we can ensure students are ready to compete for the jobs of the future.

Management Development Series #1: Impasse, implementation and midterm bargaining: Three topics you need to understand!

Wednesday, April 18
OSBA office, Columbus

10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.
Cost is $85

In the last couple of years, issues such as impasse, implementation and midterm bargaining have evolved from being considered quaint and archaic to cutting-edge. What was considered important in reaching impasse is now less important than what is involved in being at ultimate impasse. Similarly, implementation used to be an afterthought in bargaining, now it is a prime consideration. In 2013, with the new Ohio Teacher Evaluation System set to become a reality, districts may face an unanticipated midterm bargaining situation that they are ill prepared for. This workshop will cover these important issues, what Ohio law and the State Employment Relations Board has to say about them, discuss important trends and offer practical advice for dealing with them. Presenters will be Van D. Keating, OSBA director of management services; Renee L. Fambro, OSBA deputy director of labor relations; and George M. Albu, Federal Mediation & Conciliation Service commissioner.

Management Development Series #2: The bullying bill: Is your district prepared?

Wednesday, May 16
OSBA office, Columbus

10 a.m. to 2 p.m.
Cost is $85

Bullying is an important issue in schools. Now, more than ever, with the passage of the Jessica Logan Act (the bullying bill), districts need to be aware of legal and policy issues relating to bullying, as well as ways to combat bullying in schools.

This workshop will provide a foundation on the topic through a discussion of the legal considerations relating to bullying. Policy implications also will be discussed, with a focus on the policy changes and requirements stemming from the Jessica Logan Act. Then, we'll take a look at what one district in the state is doing to address this issue and why it chose that program to stop bullying in its schools.

charter schools and vouchers must all be linked to an accountability system. They emphasized that public education must be unified in calling for charter and voucher schools to be held accountable in the same way public schools are.

"We need help from the field on this," Collins said. "It is most important that we have an opportunity to reach out to you and hear your thoughts. ... You are the legislators' constituents and must speak with a common voice."

Following their presentation Collins and McKinley joined trustees for a working lunch, where they fielded a number of questions and shared their insights.

Trustees also held a teleconference with National School Boards Association (NSBA) President-elect C. Ed Massey of Kentucky. Massey told trustees that NSBA is conducting a search to replace association Executive Director Anne L. Bryant, who is retiring in September. Bryant has served as head of NSBA for more than 15 years.

Massey also shared that NSBA and the American Association of School Administrators will merge their national conferences beginning in 2013. That inaugural joint conference will be in San Diego.

Trustees heard a presentation on BoardDocs from Laura Vautour, also via teleconference. Endorsed by OSBA, BoardDocs is a Web-based, paperless agenda service that frees school districts from the enormous task of assembling, printing, distributing and revising board packets. The Board of Trustees plans to implement BoardDocs for its future meetings.

OSBA Chief Financial Officer Janice Smith provided an update on the association's diversity and inclusion campaign, and reviewed efforts to increase staff and governance diversity.

On the staff front, OSBA is actively working to create a climate that attracts, retains, motivates and maximizes a racially and ethnically diverse workforce of top professionals. The association also is striving to increase governance diversity by analyzing ways to expand member participation at the regional and state levels, while addressing diversity and inclusion challenges.

In other business:

● Executive Director Richard Lewis said that a new Visionary Initiatives for Strategic Action (VISA) Task Force is being formed. VISA is OSBA's strategic plan. Although the plan is continually updated, a task force is assigned to develop in-depth updates every five years.

● Trustees adopted a resolution thanking 2011 President Cathy Johnson, South-Western City, for her service as president, and recognizing "her dedication to children and for being an inspiration to school board members everywhere."

● Manson presented a preview of the Federal Relations Network Conference.

● Director of Legislative Services Damon Asbury discussed OSBA's legislative focus for 2012.

The next meeting of the OSBA Board of Trustees is scheduled for May 19 in Columbus.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

by Michelle Francis, deputy director of legislative services

Governor presents mid-biennium review proposals

Gov. John Kasich recently introduced an expansive list of policy changes for his mid-biennium review (MBR). The review includes a new energy policy, an income tax cut, higher resource extraction taxes, changes in education and workforce development, and a management efficiency plan for state and local governments. Many of these issues will impact public education. However, the review does not include a new school-funding plan.

Following are the governor's MBR proposals in specific areas:

Education and workforce development

- Third-grade reading guarantee: Requires an intervention plan for students in grades K-two who have trouble reading. Students that fail reading proficiency tests would be prevented from advancing into the third grade.
- Career connections: Includes career awareness and development in new model curriculum.
- New school performance measuring system: A new formula system will assign letter grades A-F to all public schools and school districts. A separate new A-F system will be developed for grading career technical schools.

- Blended learning: Defines digital learning and creates new standards for blended learning.
- Teacher evaluations: Creates a system that allows for credentialed third-party evaluators.
- Dropout recovery schools: Creates new standards for dropout recovery schools that will center on student achievement and student growth.
- Early childhood programs: Requires all publicly funded early childhood programs to be assessed in line with Ohio's Race to the Top Early Learning Challenge grant.
- The Cleveland Plan: The education reform plan was mentioned, but will not be part of MBR. Instead, the legislature is likely to take this initiative up separately once a bill sponsor is found.

Management efficiency for state, local governments

- Merges the State Architect's Office with the Ohio School Facilities Commission (OSFC) to create a new Facilities Construction Commission.
- Establishes a Tax Appeal Backlog Assistance Program in the Department of Taxation to reduce the backlog of cases at the Board of Tax Appeals.

- Includes the much-anticipated shared services report, "Breaking Down Barriers."
- Cuts $113.5 million from state agency budgets, with a few increases for certain programs.

Income tax cut

- Proposes cutting the state income tax by $900 million to $1 billion over five years, depending on how much revenue a corresponding increase in the oil and gas severance tax produces.
- Currently, the income tax makes up about 45% of the state's General Revenue Fund. About 40% of the fund goes to K-12 education.

Energy

- Increases the severance tax on oil and gas to pay for state income tax reductions.
- Imposes a 1.5% tax on natural gas production from high-volume horizontal wells in Ohio's deep shale formations, rather than the current rate of $0.03 per million cubic feet. Oil and natural gas liquids from high-volume wells would be taxed at 1.5% for the first year, increasing to 4% after producers recoup their drilling costs.
- Requires drillers to pay an upfront $25,000 fee to local

Students' research backs district's growth plan

The results from a marketing research project conducted by a trio of Olentangy Local (Delaware) students supported a scheduling proposal that administrators presented to the school board in October. Olentangy, which has been Ohio's fastest-growing school district for nearly a decade, is seeking ways to deal with that rapid growth.

Olentangy High School seniors Emily Bechtol, Chris Cousins and Mandy Rodriguez surveyed students, teachers and community members to get their thoughts on how to address overcrowding in the district's high schools. The surveys were part of a marketing project for a DECA competition.

The students worked with Project 2020, a community-based initiative to help the district maintain its academic excellence while dealing with enrollment growth in a cost-effective, sustainable way.

"We started our primary research by sending out surveys through the high schools," Cousins told a local newspaper. "We tried to get 25% of the population of each school."

In addition to surveys, the students conducted focus groups with district stakeholders. They discovered that there was support for offering some elective courses away from campus and for a combination of online and traditional school courses.

governments to offset impacts to infrastructure from large-scale operations.

Officials estimate that when the actual bill language is introduced it could total about 2,800 pages and probably will be heard in multiple committees. As soon as bill details become available, lobbyists from OSBA, the Ohio Association of School Business Officials and the Buckeye Association of School Administrators will analyze the legislation and share information with their members.

Since many of the MBR issues will impact public education and because of the limited amount of time the legislature is scheduled to be in session this election year, it is crucial that you remain engaged in the process. OSBA may find it necessary to call on its members to respond quickly to legislative calls to action.

Stay tuned for more MBR details and learn more by attending the State Legislative Conference on March 28. See the Briefcase blue pages for conference information.

Capital appropriations bill introduced

House Bill (HB) 482, the capital budget bill for fiscal year 2013-14, proposes $1.74 billion in appropriations. Included in the capital plan are $675 million in appropriations for OSFC. Of that money, $425 million is backed by General Revenue Fund debt and the rest will be generated by licensing fees for video lottery terminals at racetracks. OSFC estimates that with the appropriations contained in the bill, it will be able to continue support for 77 districts currently receiving funding, as well as start 20 to 25 new projects each year of the capital biennium.
