Longtime education policy expert DeMaria named state superintendent

The State Board of Education has selected veteran Ohio education policy expert Paolo DeMaria as the next state superintendent of public instruction. The May 11 vote to hire DeMaria, one of 44 candidates to apply for the post, was unanimous. He most recently served as principal consultant for Education First Consulting. He previously served as Ohio Board of Regents executive vice chancellor, an Ohio Department of Education associate superintendent, director of the Office of Budget and Management for Gov. George V. Voinovich and chief policy advisor for Gov. Bob Taft.

OSBA Black Caucus announces 2016 scholarship winners

The OSBA Black Caucus has announced the 2016 Leo Lucas Scholarship winners. The program provides African-Americans graduating from high school funds to help them attend college. Ten students were selected from among 126 applicants. The scholarship program is named for the late Leo Lucas, a Dayton City school board member and educator who founded the OSBA Black Caucus. For a list of the winners and more information on the caucus, visit http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/90489.

High court rules public ‘meeting’ may include electronic communications

On May 3, the Ohio Supreme Court held that Ohio’s Open Meetings Act prohibits any private, prearranged discussion of public business by a majority of the members of a public body regardless of whether the discussion occurs face to face; by telephone; via videoconference; or electronically by email, text, tweet or other form of communication. The case, White v. King, stemmed from a lawsuit an Ohio school board member filed against his board of education. For complete details, visit http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/85016.

Kasich appoints Ohio’s first female governor to State Board of Education

Nancy P. Hollister, who served briefly as Ohio’s first female governor, has been appointed to the State Board of Education. Gov. John R. Kasich named her to fill the vacancy left by former Ohio Rep. Bob Hagan’s resignation last year. Kasich previously had appointed attorney and business professor Robert E. McDonald Jr. to fill the vacancy, but McDonald withdrew before he was sworn in. Hollister, who was Gov. George V. Voinovich’s lieutenant governor, served the final 11 days of his term in the late 1990s when he resigned early to take a U.S. Senate seat.

OSBA accepting nominations for regional, state committees and offices

OSBA is seeking nominations for 2017 regional and state committee appointments. All school board members are encouraged to apply for OSBA elected offices and committee posts. Serving as an officer or committee member provides an outstanding opportunity to interact with board members from other school districts and represent your board and district at region and state events. A Call for Nominations brochure and application form were recently mailed to all board members and are posted at http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/40095.

The nomination deadline is June 30. Contact your regional manager to learn more about a particular committee, elected office or the nomination process. Regional managers’ phone numbers and email addresses are posted at www.ohioschoolboards.org/regions.

OSBA Pocket Calendars mailed to district treasurers

The 2016-2017 OSBA Pocket Calendar has been mailed to treasurers at all member school districts. The calendar contains a list of important Ohio Revised Code dates and deadlines, contact information for all OSBA staff members and dates of major OSBA professional development events. Board members who don’t receive their calendar should contact their treasurer.

Back-to-school sales tax holiday will return

Ohio is again offering a three-day sales tax holiday to help parents and teachers save money while back-to-school shopping. The sales tax will be suspended Aug. 5 through Aug. 7 on clothing, school supplies and instructional materials within certain price ranges. The holiday also applies to mail, telephone and online purchases. For details, visit http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/78583.

World War II vet gets bus ride of a lifetime

As a child, 90-year-old Indian Lake resident Roger Timmons lived right next to the schoolhouse. There was never a need to hop on the bus.

But his daughter, Kelly Shaw, always knew it was something the World War II veteran wanted to do.

Indian Lake Local (Logan) made certain Timmons, who served in the Navy in the South Pacific, received the ride he deserved.

Several members of the district’s Indian Lake Elementary School Student Council accompanied Timmons, and many students and families who live along the bus route stood with signs and waved to thank Timmons for his service to the country.

OSBA LEADERSHIP

by Cheryl W. Ryan, director of school board services

OSBA offers summer special for custom workshops, retreats and to jump-start strategic plans

For most school administrators and board members, summer provides an opportunity to finish projects and see to details for closing out the current academic year. The slower pace and less-packed days also provide a perfect opportunity for leadership teams to come together on good board governance practices, problem-solving, communication or development of new initiatives. Community surveys, goal setting, performance planning, evaluations and team dynamics often are part of a summer agenda.

Summer board retreats and workshops provide the opportunity to discuss certain topics in greater depth, address challenges, get to know administrative team members better and discuss long-range projects or discuss processes that need board review.

A strategic planning initiative is another good summer activity. Launching a planned, formal and goal-oriented strategic planning process can help districts gain clarity on how best to use current resources and build community investment.

The OSBA Division of School Board Services is pleased to present facilitated training opportunities this summer at a discount to OSBA members. Retreats and customized workshops scheduled for dates between June 1 and Aug. 15 will be discounted:

- full-day (six hour) retreat facilitation: $1,400 (regularly $1,600);
- customized three-hour workshop: $700 (regularly $850).

If you wish to discuss or book your board’s summer workshop or retreat, call OSBA’s school board services division at (614) 540-4000 while openings are still available.

Administrative salary analysis

Need help determining how to compensate your administrators? It’s more complicated than most people think, and OSBA has considerable experience in this area. We are able to help school districts with a variety of important initiatives, including:

- compensation/classification system design
- job description creation/modification
- performance evaluation system design

For more information, contact Van D. Keating, director of management services, at (614) 540-4000, (800) 589-OSBA, or vkeating@ohioschoolboards.org.
After two days of unrivaled learning and networking, school board members who gathered at the Hilton Columbus/Polaris in north Columbus April 29 and 30 were ready to put their newfound knowledge to use.

Board members savor the professional development that OSBA’s Board Leadership Institute offers year after year. Nearly 200 were registered for this year’s event.

“You can never underestimate the value of training,” said Randall E. Smith, Forest Hills Local (Hamilton). “If you want to do a good job as a board member, the very best way is to build a firm foundation of high-quality training.

“I’ve seen people who want to try and function as a board member with no training, and it’s very easy to make mistakes.”

The Friday-Saturday event featured 18 breakout sessions in six learning tracks, covering student achievement, finance, critical issues, board development, leadership and hot topics such as the opioid epidemic and accommodating transgender students.

BLI is planned at the Board Leadership Institute Focus Group meeting during the OSBA Capital Conference and, based on board members’ recommendations, further developed by OSBA staff.

This was the event’s 15th year.

“Our entire board was here, and that’s how important we think professional development is,” Hamilton County ESC board member Bill Ferguson Jr. said. He also is a member of the Great Oaks Career Campuses Governing Board. “OSBA provides dynamic sessions at Capital Conference, and I would say the (BLI) is No. 2. … It’s really important that board members attend something like this.”

All five members of the Campbell City, Hamilton County ESC, Mad River Local (Montgomery) and Warrensville Heights City boards participated in BLI.

A benefit of a smaller conference like BLI is the networking opportunities. Between sessions and during two luncheons sponsored by CompManagement and CompManagement Health Systems Inc., attendees were able to meet with colleagues, browse the on-site OSBA Bookstore and talk with regional managers.

Information also was available on OSBA endorsed programs.

Handouts from each breakout session were placed on flash drives, so attendees can share material with others in their districts.

“It’s never the same twice, and you have great opportunities to gain perspective from other board members and views that maybe you didn’t think about or come up with on your own for topics that are trending right now,” OSBA President Eric K. Germann, Lincolnview Local (Van Wert) and Vantage Career Center, said.

Opening General Session

C. Ed Massey

What NASCAR and school boards have in common by Crystal Davis, deputy director of communication services

“There are over 14,000 school boards in the U.S. …” said C. Ed Massey as he waived around a clear plastic jar full of car lug nuts during his April 29 BLI talk. “And if we all collectively work together, think of the voice we will have.”

A die-hard NASCAR fan, Massey also is a Kentucky school board member and former president of the Kentucky School Boards Association and National School Boards Association. Offering genuine and still-oily racing lug nuts to those who answered questions correctly, Massey skillfully connected NASCAR to the everyday work of boards.

school boards during his presentation.

“As a school board member, this is how I came into NASCAR. I was asked by the Marine Corps to help get into our schools for recruiting purposes. They took me to the Kentucky Speedway, and at my very first race, I sat on top of a toolbox on pit road. I became an addict.”

Wearing a NASCAR tie, Massey pointed to the back wall of the packed room where he hung two stock car race flags.

“Because I’m obviously passionate about the sport, I thought, ‘how could we involve educators with NASCAR?’ A few years ago, we partnered with NASCAR and started an essay contest with schools.”

High school students may enter the contest, and a board evaluates the entries. Winners have the opportunity to spend an entire race day with a NASCAR team to learn how much STEAM (science, technology, engineering, art and math) education is involved in the process.

“The Kentucky Speedway also gives certificates to schools to distribute how they want, whether it be for attendance, good grades or whatever, for a student to go to the race for free and the parents for half price. They want to fill seats, but they also want to engage students to become familiar with something they think they’ll be passionate about.

“So how do you do that? You take what they’re learning about and make it real for them … you learn a lot more when you’re having fun than when you’re not having fun.”

To make it real for school board members, Massey detailed the many similarities between school boards and NASCAR teams: the driver is equal to the school superintendent; the board chair is equal to the crew chief; board members are equal to the pit crew; the community is the owner; the parents are equal to the fans; and the vendors are equal to the sponsors.

“We have to understand our role as a board member. In NASCAR, they change tires or perform their pit road duty in 14 to 16 seconds. They don’t try to tell

The OSBA Capital Conference Student Achievement Fair highlights outstanding student performance groups and fresh, innovative initiatives from school districts across the state. The fair will be held from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 15, 2016, during the OSBA Capital Conference.

Student Achievement Fair performing groups
OSBA will choose one school district performing group from each of the association’s five regions to perform during the Student Achievement Fair. Past performing groups have included choirs, bands, orchestras, percussion ensembles and cheerleaders. Each group will perform for 20 minutes. To nominate a performing group, submit a nomination at http://conference.ohioschoolboards.org/saf-nominations and email an electronic video audition or YouTube link to Teri Morgan, deputy director of school board services, at tmorgan@ohioschoolboards.org. Only electronic recordings will be accepted.

Student Achievement Fair district programs
OSBA is accepting nominations for district programs. These programs showcase exemplary programs that improve student achievement. Examples of district programs in the Student Achievement Fair include one-to-one technology programs, STEM engineering for middle grades, a workforce exchange program and career center culinary arts programs. For more ideas, visit http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/60021 to view the list of 2015 Student Achievement Fair district programs.

One hundred programs highlighting student achievement will be selected. While multiple programs may be submitted for consideration, no more than two per district will be selected, so districts should prioritize their submissions. Nominate a district program at http://conference.ohioschoolboards.org/saf-nominations.

District programs will be showcased in a 10x10-foot booth that can accommodate up to five people. Please note: Internet access IS NOT provided with your booth. If you need Internet access, you can purchase it from the convention center. The 2015 daily rate for Wi-Fi was $99 per device. You will need a credit card to make the purchase.

Have questions?
If you have questions about nominating a student performing group or district program, contact Gwen Samet (gsamet@ohioschoolboards.org) or Teri Morgan (tmorgan@ohioschoolboards.org) at (614) 540-4000 or (800) 589-OSBA.

The nomination deadline is Friday, June 24. Visit http://conference.ohioschoolboards.org/saf-nominations to nominate a student performing group or district program today!

colleagues how to do their role. They just try to do their job well.
“I’m just passing through, I’m one board member and all I can do is try to have as big an impact on the community as I can have right now.”

Massey went on to point out the similarities in controlled factors between NASCAR and education such as curriculum equals the race plan; grades equal the number of laps; and data equals data.
“(NASCAR teams) measure tire pressure to the ‘T’ (and scrutinize data). If you’re doing something the way you’ve always done it and not improving, you must adapt. The only way to do that in education is to monitor what your students are doing. You’ve got to have the right team, and you have to be willing to change up what you’re doing. And you’ve got to have training.
“We’ve got to learn to partner with higher education (to make sure teachers are adequately trained) … and businesses. We have a guaranteed employability program where if students are on time, show up, do their homework and get reasonable scores, we partner with businesses so that when they graduate, they are guaranteed a job.”

Later, Massey discussed similarities in uncontrollable factors between school boards and NASCAR teams, such as program failure is equal to a blown engine; testing requirements are equal to NASCAR rules; and for both, funding equals funding.

Start employees on the path to success with an employee handbook

Many districts have employee handbooks, but they may be outdated or incomplete. OSBA can help your district create a concise and accurate handbook that is useful for employers and employees.

A handbook:
- provides clear notice of expectations to employees;
- is a handy reference for employees to answer questions and cover basic conditions of employment;
- supports growth and development;
- supports disciplinary actions when guidelines are not followed;
- is a reference tool for nonunion employees.

OSBA offers three options of tiered services to meet your district’s needs, including:
- Standard – electronic template of handbook and sample language;
- Review – electronic template of handbook, consultant guidance and more;
- Premium – most complete service to a district.

For more information, contact Van D. Keating, director of management services, at (614) 540-4000, (800) 589-OSBA or vkeating@ohioschoolboards.org.
“You could have one naysayer that influences the whole school. You’ve got to be strong enough in leadership to keep noise in the background. There’s also a problem with adapting; you have done miracles with the money you already have, but they don’t get it. Legislators should have to wear their sponsors on their suits.”

The crowd roared with laughter and applause. During the hour that he spoke, Massey kept the crowd engaged by sharing pictures and stories about various NASCAR drivers and jokes.

“How many of you are in it for the money? I’ve been doing this 20 years, and I’ve been waiting for my payday, so I filed again last week. It’s coming! Actually, the real reward is the success of the schools and to see that smile on a kid’s face when a child gets it.”

And Massey said he doesn’t have to look far to see the fruits of his board’s efforts. Among his three daughters, his oldest is graduating from college soon with a teaching certification, his youngest is a high school junior, and he was leaving straight from BLI to watch his third daughter receive an academic award at Western Kentucky University.

“When I think about my daughter tonight, that’s because she is the product of a public school system that cared about her success.”

Success comes in his district, at least in part, Massey said, because his board takes time at the beginning of each meeting to celebrate the small victories.

Student groups perform the Pledge of Allegiance and the national anthem, and the board presents Parent Power and Sportsmanship awards. Twice a year, they hold an Evening with the Stars and a Breakfast of Champions, sponsored by community businesses, to recognize student achievement.

“Education is about more than test scores. If you make sure a kid is fed, has clothes, comes to school, has a smile on his face and improves on test scores even a little bit, you have succeeded … because you changed the life of a child. You, as board members, are sometimes the only love those students are ever going to get.”

Achieving more together

The OSBA Legal Assistance Fund provides financial or legal assistance in matters of statewide importance to local school districts.

What we can do:

- File friend of the court (amicus) briefs supporting issues of statewide importance.
- Minimize the financial hardship of costly litigation to individual boards of education.
- Supplement legal services available to boards of education.

Benefits to your district:

- Favorable judicial decisions that set precedents that can have a positive impact in your district.
- Direct assistance to your district if it is involved in a lawsuit of statewide significance.
- A quarterly e-newsletter of recent Ohio school law developments.

To join, contact the OSBA Division of Legal Services at (614) 540-4000.
“When it comes to victory … graduation equals victory lane. You don’t get to victory until you put forth meticulous effort, and the big victory will never come unless you celebrate the small victories (that happen as you enjoy the ride).”

Closing Luncheon
Ohio Rep. John Patterson
Investing in public education
by Scott Gerfen, assistant editor

The late Olympic distance runner Steve Prefontaine used words that were often as inspiring as his racing style.

During his April 30 presentation on the worth of public education, Ohio Rep. John Patterson (D-Jefferson) repeated one of those quotes from a man who once held the American record in seven different distance track events.

“To give anything less than your best is to sacrifice the gift,” Prefontaine once said.

Public education is an investment in someone who, in return, gives back in the form of service and participation in democracy, Patterson told BLI attendees.

And without a “vibrant and thriving democracy, our economy and our society will crumble.”

The retired Jefferson Area Local (Ashtabula) history teacher, who is in his second term in the Ohio House of Representatives, fears we have lost sight of that investment. Patterson serves on the House Education Committee and the House Finance Subcommittee on Primary and Secondary Education.

“We are quickly becoming a back-porch society with walls of oppression, as compared to a front-porch society with stairs of opportunity. The public school creates an intersection for life experiences from which we derive communal respect and deeper understanding for our shared purpose and collective meaning. We must dedicate our time and talent to this great cause.”

In January, Patterson introduced House Bill (HB) 438, legislation to designate the week before Thanksgiving as Ohio Public Education Appreciation Week. The annual period of recognition would coincide with the national American Education Week.

“We must constantly remember and reflect upon the very purpose of public education. What is our purpose, especially during periods of duress? It is important to revisit the very reasons why we believe what we believe.”

He said the Joint Education Oversight Committee will help serve that mission. Patterson serves on the 10-member panel of six Republicans and four Democrats.

Established by HB 64, the committee’s charge is to “select, for review and evaluation, education programs at school districts, other public schools and state institutions of higher education that receive state financial assistance in any form.”

Gov. John R. Kasich has proposed legislation that seeks to better protect Ohio students and communities from lead contamination in drinking water.

Kasich proposed House Bill (HB) 512 following incidents in Ohio and elsewhere in which water supplies were found to contain significant amounts of lead contamination, and notification timelines were deemed insufficient to properly protect students and the public.

The bill, part of midbiennium budget review legislation, was recently introduced and is expected to move through the General Assembly prior to its summer break.

HB 512 would require water systems to provide homeowners test results within two business days of the systems receiving the results. The current requirement is 30 days.

If high lead levels are detected in a water system, the bill would require a systemwide notification within two business days and more in-depth public education within 30 days. If the system fails

More than two dozen schools have been recognized by the Ohio Department of Education (ODE) for maintaining high academic achievement among their students.

Many of these students are in economically disadvantaged situations, which can make learning challenging.

ODE named 22 Schools of Promise, 14 High Performing Schools of Honor and four High Progress Schools of Honor. Ten of the 29 schools received more than one award.

“Even as expectations rise, these communities continue to beat the odds,” Dr. Lonny J. Rivera, interim state superintendent of public instruction, said in a news release.

“Students of every background and ability level deserve the opportunity to succeed, and I’m especially proud of the difference these schools are making in the lives of Ohio’s students.”

To qualify as a School of Promise, a school must serve at least 40% economically disadvantaged students, and 80% or more of students in grades that took the 2014-15 PARCC and Ohio Graduation Tests must have rated proficient in reading and math for all subgroups of students, among other criteria.

to meet these new time frames, the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) would intervene to notify homeowners within 10 days and provide public education. In cases of EPA intervention, noncompliant systems would face an administrative penalty.

To help schools and communities prevent lead contamination, provisions in the bill are aimed at coordinating state resources for financial assistance. These resources include drinking water revolving loan programs available through EPA, which provides low-interest loans and long-range funding for projects such as infrastructure improvements, upgrades to water plants and replacing lead service lines that pose a risk.

In addition, a partnership among the Ohio Water Development Authority, EPA and the Ohio Facilities Construction Commission would offer grant funding to help schools built prior to 1990. The grants would reimburse districts for the cost of replacing plumbing identified as causing lead contamination.

Eligible districts can request to have their buildings tested for lead content in drinking water through the Ohio Water Development Authority Assessment Program. If the assessment indicates drinking fountains, water coolers, plumbing fixtures or limited connected lines exceed the federal action level for lead, the district may apply to be reimbursed for up to $15,000 per building to replace those fixtures.

Prior to being passed in the House Energy and Natural Resources Committee, the provisions dealing with grant funding for districts was removed from HB 512. OSBA was told those provisions will be inserted into HB 547 since that bill makes changes to state appropriations and is currently before the House Finance Committee.
