Study: Nearly $11 billion diverted to Ohio charter schools since 1999

A new study by Dr. Howard Fleeter of the Ohio Education Policy Institute (OEPI) shows that since their launch in 1999, Ohio charter schools have received $10.9 billion in state money — revenue that was deducted from public schools' state funding. The study states that Ohio's method of funding charter schools is mathematically equivalent to funding them with local tax dollars. The reason is that local districts receive only a portion of the per-student state funding amount, ranging from 90% in the poorest districts to 5% in the wealthiest, while the charter school deduction amount is 100% of the funding for each student. The local funding following charter school students has been about 30% of total charter school revenue over the past several years. OEPI is a not-for-profit research arm of the education community.

Voters OK about two-thirds of school tax issues on primary ballot

Ohio voters approved 63 of the 92 local school tax issues in the May 8 primary election. Although 68% of the issues passed, most of the winning issues were renewal levies. Voters approved 40 of the 46 renewal issues on the ballot, an 87% passage rate. Twenty-three of the 46 new school tax issues were approved, a passage rate of 50%. The success rate for renewal levies in the May 2017 primary election was 94%, while new money requests had a 52% passage rate. OSBA maintains a comprehensive online database of school tax issues at <http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/19699>.

Auditor says ECOT probe could result in criminal prosecution

Ohio Auditor of State Dave Yost has referred an audit of The Electronic Classroom of Tomorrow (ECOT) to the U.S. Attorney's Office and Franklin County Prosecutor's Office for possible criminal prosecution. The audit, released May 10, found that ECOT misled state regulators by inflating the amount of time its students were engaged in learning by failing to deduct the time students were inactive online. The audit includes a $249,962 finding for recovery related to political ads attacking the Ohio General Assembly and Ohio Department of Education in an apparent attempt to keep the state from trying to recover $80 million in overpayments based on faulty enrollment data.

OSBA posts resources to help combat opioid epidemic

In collaboration with the Ohio Attorney General's Office and other groups, OSBA is sharing two webinars that address the state's opioid epidemic. The webinars were created by the Center for Innovative Practices, with support from Ohio Mental Health and Addiction Services and a federal 21st Century Cures Act grant, which provides funding to combat the prescription opioid and heroin crisis. The first webinar is

Student receives letterman's jacket in emotional ceremony

Students and staff at Otsego Local (Wood) have always embraced special needs student Christopher Schuckers, who has been a basketball team manager since he was in the seventh grade.

So it was only fitting that the junior received his varsity letterman's jacket during an assembly in the high school gymnasium. The emotional ceremony had some wiping away tears.

"This school has been outstanding ... they go above and beyond with him," Schuckers' mother, Tami, told a local newspaper.

Wood County Sheriff's Deputy Brian Ruckstuhl organized the effort to raise money for the jacket.

OSBA offering special summer discounts for customized workshops, board retreats and strategic planning initiatives

For most school administrators and board members, summer provides an opportunity to finish projects and manage the details necessary for closing the books on the current academic year. A slower pace and less-scheduled days create an opportunity for leadership teams to meet and discuss better board governance practices, problem-solving, communication or planning for new initiatives. Community surveys, goal-setting, performance objectives, evaluations and team dynamics can be part of a board's productive summer agenda.

Summer board retreats and workshops allow for discussions of greater depth, analysis of challenging issues, improvement of leadership team dynamics and planning for long-range projects needing board review.

A strategic planning initiative is another productive summer activity. Launching a planned, formal and community-oriented strategic planning process helps districts gain clarity on how best to use current resources and build investment well into the future.

OSBA is pleased to present facilitated training opportunities this summer at a discount to its members. Retreats and customized workshops occurring between June 1 and Aug. 15 will be discounted as follows:

- full-day (six hour) retreat facilitation: $1,400 (regularly $1,600);
- customized half-day (three hour) workshop: $700 (regularly $850).

"For many districts, board agendas are somewhat shorter during the summer and the calendar a little less crowded," said Cheryl W. Ryan, OSBA director of board and management services. "June, July and August provide a really beneficial time for deep discussions and planning. There never seems to be enough time for this type of thoughtful work during the school year. Summer workshops can help boards move forward into the new year."

To schedule your board's summer workshop or retreat while openings are still available, call the Division of Board and Management Services at (614) 540-4000 or (800) 589-OSBA.

New Board Member Workshop: How's it going so far?

Saturday, June 9
OSBA office, Columbus

9 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Cost is $95

For board members still in their first term of office, every budgetary, evaluation, appointment or adoption deadline presents a first opportunity to make the best decision for the school district. Many new or relatively new board members make these decisions while learning to work – often for the first time – with administrators and other board members. This workshop will offer participants a chance to network, ask questions and dive a little deeper into the details of board governance. Topics include board and staff communications, managing difficult decisions, providing a consistent and professional message to staff and community members and a calendar of tips and topics to manage goal setting and evaluation.

Agenda

8:30 a.m. Registration and continental breakfast

9 a.m. Welcome and introductions

9:15 a.m. Board governance challenges

Let's talk about issues related to board meetings, executive sessions, social media and other governance topics that often create challenges. Learn how changing or rethinking your policies, processes or board agreements can improve efficiency and culture.

10:45 a.m. The right way to send a message

Difficult conversations? Different perspectives? These are part of life but can be more challenging when they pop up in public – as in a board meeting or other public gathering. This session will help board members do and say what's necessary but do so professionally, ethically and appropriately.

11:30 a.m. Lunch (provided)

Noon Goal setting and evaluation

It's often said that it's hard to get somewhere if you don't know where you're going. That's even truer of board work. Learn how important it is for the board to agree on a process to set goals, align performance objectives and do objective evaluations to generate positive momentum and progress.

The concussion discussion

Sports concussions are one of the most widely discussed and misunderstood topics in current sports law. The science and medicine addressing concussions is constantly evolving as are the legal issues surrounding these claims. This panel will discuss these issues from three different perspectives: medical, insurance claims and legal. Learn steps that can be taken to reduce concussions in athletes; best practices for working with an athlete who has suffered a concussion; points to consider when investigating a concussion claim; and current trends in concussion litigation, both in Ohio and nationwide.

Dr. John Brannan, Beacon Orthopedics & Sports Medicine; Greg Gilliam, claims manager, Schools of Ohio Risk Sharing Authority; and Thomas F. Glassman, Esq., Bonezzi Switzer Polito & Hupp Co. LPA, Cincinnati

by Jay Smith, deputy director of legislative services

Senate OKs bill limiting suspensions of younger students

Senate Bill (SB) 246, sponsored by Sens. Peggy Lehner (R-Kettering) and Gayle Manning (R-North Ridgeville) was unanimously voted out of the Ohio Senate May 16.

The legislation, referred to as the Supporting Alternatives for Fair Education (SAFE) Act, now heads to the House for consideration. It seeks to address disciplinary procedures used in schools with the goal of limiting out-of-school suspensions and promoting positive behavioral interventions and supports (PBIS).

Specifically, SB 246 prohibits the use of an out-of-school suspension or expulsion for students in grades pre-K through three unless the student has engaged in a serious offense or it's necessary to protect the immediate health and safety of students, staff, teachers and other school employees. The full implementation of this provision would be phased in over a three-year period.

Current law permits districts and schools to suspend students for up to 10 school days and/or expel students for up to 80 days for a violation of the district's code of conduct policy. The bill specifies a number of serious offenses for which a yearlong expulsion may be authorized, such as bringing a firearm or knife to school, possessing a firearm or knife at school, making a bomb threat or causing serious physical harm to persons or property.

Reasonable Suspicion Training

OSBA is offering a reasonable suspicion drug and alcohol training program for supervisors. Completion of this course is required for all supervisors of safety-sensitive (commercial driver's license) drivers, including school bus drivers. Best practice is that each district have at least two administrators trained in this requirement.

The course meets the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration U.S. Department of Transportation requirements. Attendees will receive a certificate of completion.

Details: This workshop is being offered on three dates from 10 a.m. to noon at the OSBA office. Choose from Tuesday, June 5; Tuesday, July 10; or Tuesday, Aug. 7.

Cost: $50

PUBLIC SCHOOLS WORK!

compiled by Scott Gerfen, assistant editor

Cosmetology students experience the beauty of giving

Students in cosmetology classes at Cleveland Heights-University Heights City's Cleveland Heights High School learn and practice the professional skills that help improve one's appearance.

However, a project started by teacher Donna Pollard relates more to the beauty of giving. Her students made 44 wigs for cancer patients in 2016 and 2017 and hope to double that number this year.

Pollard started the project two years ago and has even contributed her own money to buy hair and supplies from a local vendor.

"(A student) was making a wig for her mother's friend who was dying of cancer," Pollard told a local newspaper. "She asked me, 'How do you think this looks?' I said it was great, and then I thought, 'We could do a project with this.'"

Students collaborate with the American Cancer Society, which gives the wigs to The Gathering Place, a nonprofit organization that offers free programs and services to those who have been diagnosed with cancer and their families.

Several students have been touched by cancer. Seniors Serenity Jackson and Larrian Redmond had grandmothers diagnosed with the disease.

"My grandmother died from breast cancer about six years ago," said Redmond, who recently made an 18-inch-long blond wig. "So, when I was growing up, I wanted to give something back."

During the three years of implementation, a district or school must report to the Ohio Department of Education (ODE) the number of out-of-school suspensions and expulsions of students in grades pre-K through three. While using fiscal year (FY) 2018 as a base, each district or school must decrease that number by 25% in FY 2019, 50% in FY 2020 and 100% in FY 2021.

In addition to limiting out-of-school suspensions and expulsions, the bill requires all teacher preparation programs to include PBIS instruction. Under the bill, teachers seeking a license for teaching grades pre-K through five would be required to take a course in PBIS.

SB 246 provides an appropriation of $2 million to fund competitive grants for public districts and schools to implement PBIS frameworks or social and emotional learning initiatives. The individual grant awards are limited to $5,000 per school building.

The bill requires school districts, within three years, to provide professional development or continuing education in PBIS to any teacher or administrator serving students in grades pre-K through three who have not already completed a PBIS course. Additionally, ODE is required to include on a school district's or building's report card a measure indicating whether the district or building has implemented a PBIS framework that complies with the bill.

The legislation also requires, rather than permits as under current law, a school to allow a student to complete classroom assignments missed during both in-school and out-of-school suspensions. Furthermore, the superintendent or principal is required to ensure that a student serving an in-school suspension is in a supervised learning environment.
