Report: State budget cuts to schools endanger U.S. economic growth

A new study by the nonpartisan Center on Budget and Policy Priorities reports that deepening state funding cuts to public education are hindering schools' ability to provide a high-quality education and diminishing U.S. economic competitiveness. The report ranked per-pupil cuts in Ohio the seventh highest in the nation in 2012, after the state chopped $1.8 billion in aid to schools to help balance its budget. Download the report at <http://links.ohioschoolboards.org/83899>.

New group with similar name not affiliated with OSBA

There have been reports of confusion regarding a new group calling itself the Ohio School Boards Leadership Council. This organization is not affiliated with the Ohio School Boards Association (OSBA), any of our subsidiaries or with the Ohio Leadership Advisory Council. Founded in 1955, OSBA represents nearly 100% of Ohio's more than 700 public boards of education and is governed by school board members from around the state. For more on OSBA's outstanding service to Ohio school boards, see page 4 or visit www.ohioschoolboards.org.

New data shows food insecurity for Ohio families remains high

A recent report from the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) found that 15.5% of Ohio households were unable to feed themselves adequately at some time between 2009 and 2011. The national food insecurity rate was 14.9%. The report defines food insecurity as reduced food intake and disrupted eating patterns caused by the lack of money and other resources for food. According to the Ohio Association of Food Banks, Ohio's food insecurity rate has increased nearly 60% in the last 15 years. The foundation cited the importance of the federal Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (food stamps) and urged Congress not to cut funding for the program.

USDA program helps high-poverty schools provide meals to all students

Several hundred high-poverty Ohio schools are benefiting from a USDA program that helps them provide free meals to all students. In addition to funding support, the Community Eligibility Option program cuts costs by eliminating paperwork for the meal programs. Ohio is one of six states chosen for early enrollment in the program, which will open to additional states in the 2013-14 school year and all states in 2014-2015. For details, visit www.education.ohio.gov and search "Community Eligibility."

OSBA invites high schools to enter student video contest

As part of its Public Schools Make A Difference campaign, OSBA is hosting its first-ever student video contest. High school video teams are asked to submit a 90-second video focusing on the great things happening in Ohio public schools. Entry forms recently were emailed to superintendents at all OSBA-member districts. Winning schools will receive cash prizes for their video production programs, and have their videos posted on OSBA's website and screened at the Capital Conference in November. The entry deadline is

Weather disrupts school in more than 100 Ohio districts

Winter is still far away, but a number of Ohio school districts have already used at least one weather-related calamity day this school year.

On Sept. 5, 109 districts delayed classes and 22 canceled them. The reason, however, was fog, not snow. Virtually zero visibility was reported in some areas of northwest Ohio due to heavy fog.

Evergreen Local (Fulton) Superintendent James Wyse explained the district's decision to cancel classes to a local TV station.

"Around 8 (a.m.) when we had to make our final decision, probably half of our district, the northern half, was pretty severe. We ended up canceling. ... In this case, it looked like it was going to lift, but it settled back in, so I think we made the right call."

The power is in your hands

OSBA truly is your association.

That is a simple but powerful statement. It's simple because of its truth. It's powerful because OSBA always has been — and will continue to be — the only Ohio association working exclusively for public boards of education and governed by members of those boards.

For 57 years OSBA's focus has been on serving school board members and their districts. The association's nearly six-decade commitment to public education remains steadfast, and is reflected in its mission statement:

OSBA leads the way to educational excellence by serving Ohio's public school board members and the diverse districts they represent through superior service and creative solutions.

Created to be member-driven, OSBA's governance structure is made up entirely of school board members who serve on the Board of Trustees, Executive Committee and Delegate Assembly. These groups are responsible for ensuring the association operates effectively and meets member needs.

Every member school board is entitled to appoint one representative as a delegate to attend the Annual Business Meeting of the OSBA Delegate Assembly at the Capital Conference. All delegates are authorized to vote and let their district's voice be heard at the business meeting.

The Delegate Assembly has a crucial role in association operations. Via majority vote, delegates may amend the OSBA Constitution or OSBA Bylaws, as well as determine association policies.

Ohio Teacher Evaluation System and Common Core regional workshops

Attention board members – plan now to attend one of the Ohio Teacher Evaluation System and Common Core regional workshops. These meetings will provide valuable information about changes coming to Ohio school districts.

The workshops will focus on what board members should know about the new Ohio Teacher Evaluation System, what the law requires, the Ohio Department of Education’s model policy and OSBA’s recommendations for your board’s policy. The discussion also will include the “whats” and “whys” of Common Core, focusing on information most vital to board members.

These meetings will provide important insight on board policy implications, as well as the impact on labor contract negotiations and other anticipated consequences as these changes roll out.

The workshops will be held at sites around Ohio, from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. The cost is $85, which includes workshop materials, boxed meals and refreshments. Register by contacting Laurie Miller, senior events manager, at (614) 540-4000, ext. 284; (800) 589-OSBA, ext. 284; or Lmiller@ohioschoolboards.org.

Urban Schools Workshop – Grow Your Own

Thursday, Oct. 4
OSBA office, Columbus

10 a.m. to 2 p.m.
Cost: $85

National studies and numerous Ohio surveys have shown that the number of minority teachers has declined as student populations have become more diverse. Since colleges and universities are not graduating enough minority teachers, “grow-your-own” programs are needed to help create pools of minority teacher candidates to meet the needs of Ohio school districts.

Join a team from Mansfield City Schools and The Ohio State University-Mansfield Campus to learn about the district’s program to increase the number of minority teachers. Presenters also will discuss the results of a grow-your-own program developed by Ashland University and eight Ohio public school districts, which was supported by an Ohio Department of Education grant.

To register, contact Laurie Miller, senior events manager, at (614) 540-4000, ext. 284; (800) 589-OSBA, ext. 284; or Lmiller@ohioschoolboards.org.

ODE Helps You Communicate Major Education Changes

Teacher evaluations, the Common Core and more

Tuesday, Oct. 2
 OSBA office,
 8050 N. High St.
 Columbus
 (614) 540-4000

Major changes are on the way for Ohio's schools in the next two years, and the Ohio Department of Education (ODE) wants to help you effectively communicate them. This ODE-led workshop will provide tools and information that will enhance districts' communication of the following major education initiatives: new curriculum standards, the new teacher evaluation system and the future of assessments, state report cards and measures such as the Performance Index. ODE also will recommend actions that districts can take this school year. Participants will have a chance to suggest additional products that may need to be developed to help them best communicate these changes.

The cost of this workshop is $145, which includes registration, continental breakfast, lunch and materials. You can register by contacting Laurie Miller, senior events manager, at (614) 540-4000, ext. 284; (800) 589-OSBA, ext. 284; or Lmiller@ohioschoolboards.org.

Working Well with Your Board of Education

A workshop for administrative assistants and professionals

Wednesday, Oct. 10 OSBA office, Columbus
10 a.m.-2 p.m. Cost is $85

Don't miss this new workshop developed for administrative assistants and professionals working with board of education members and superintendents.

When it comes to the central office in a school district, the superintendent's administrative assistant, as well as any other staff who work with the superintendent and board of education, are key to maintaining a smooth and positive relationship with the community.

To help administrative assistants and professionals be more effective in their roles, this workshop will focus on training in areas like parliamentary procedure, student privacy laws, understanding the board's key responsibilities, public records laws and the best ways to work with the media. Other topics include strategies and tools to build trust and enable open communication between staff and the board of education.

To register, contact Laurie Miller, senior events manager, at (614) 540-4000, ext. 284; (800) 589-OSBA, ext. 284; or Lmiller@ohioschoolboards.org.

Cost: $145

9 a.m. to 4 p.m.
OSBA office, Columbus

OSBA invites you to attend a practical and intensive seminar on lethal threats to students. This hard-hitting day will focus on incident command systems for schools; schools as “soft targets” for acts of violence; explosives; and active shooters. Participate in a tabletop exercise that gives you first-hand experience in school emergency response. This is an excellent follow-up for those who attended the Ohio School Safety Summit in July.

Presenters

Lt. Reno Contipelli is a 21-year veteran of the Cuyahoga Heights Fire Department and seven-year veteran of the Brooklyn Heights Fire Department. He serves as lieutenant/paramedic, is a hazmat/WMD/technician trained in chemical, biological, radiological and IED emergencies, and is a member of the Cuyahoga County Type 1 Hazmat/WMD response team. Contipelli has been a Cuyahoga Heights Local (Cuyahoga) board of education member since 1994 and currently is the board president.

Dr. Richard J. Caster served five years as executive director and instructor for the National Association of School Resource Officers. He holds instructor certification from the U.S. Department of Homeland Security in Terrorist Bombings and Suicide Bomber Prevention, as well as Firearms Instructor certification from the Ohio Peace Officers Training Commission. For 35 years, he served as a school administrator at the building and central office levels, and currently is an OSBA senior school board services consultant.

The assembly also is charged with voting on planks in the OSBA Legislative Platform, which publicly states the association's positions on a variety of issues facing public education and guides OSBA's advocacy efforts. At least 75% of the voting delegates must approve any changes to the platform.

If your board has not done so already, please nominate a delegate to represent your district. The Official Business booklet will be mailed to districts in early October. OSBA encourages all board members to review the booklet, discuss the business items and let their Delegate Assembly representative know where their board stands on the resolutions. Your district's voice can be heard and acted upon at the annual business meeting.

OSBA is recognized both statewide and nationally as a leader in public education. When outside groups, organizations or individuals talk about OSBA, they are talking about you — Ohio's school board members — and recognizing your leadership and commitment to public education. Without exceptional members like you, OSBA would not have the strong reputation it has today. The fact that nearly 100% of Ohio's public school boards are members speaks volumes about the value of OSBA membership.

Remember, no matter the circumstances, OSBA truly is working for you. For further information on any of OSBA's programs or services, please call (614) 540-4000, (800) 589-OSBA or visit www.ohioschoolboards.org.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

by Michelle Francis, deputy director of legislative services

General Assembly returns to pass pension legislation

The Ohio House and Senate recently returned from fall recess to put the finishing touches on pension reform legislation. The House passed the five pension reform bills on Sept. 12, including Senate Bill (SB) 341, which addressed the School Employees Retirement System (SERS), and SB 342, dealing with the State Teachers Retirement System (STRS). Because the House committee made minor changes to the legislation, the Senate followed the House's approval with a successful concurrence vote later in the day.

Generally, House changes to the original proposals involved the bills' effective dates, but did not affect the actual effective dates for the age, length of service and benefit changes as previously adopted by the Senate.

Sen. President Thomas Niehaus (R-New Richmond) made a rare floor speech during debate on the bills and said the legislation makes difficult, but important changes to the systems. He indicated that additional adjustments would likely be needed in the future.

The Ohio School Boards Association (OSBA) and the Ohio Association of School Business Officials (OASBO) provided joint testimony in support of SB 341 and SB 342. OSBA's testimony and charts showing the proposed changes to SERS and STRS can be found by visiting the OSBA BillTracker page at www.ohioschoolboards.org/129th-general-assembly and searching "SB 341" and "SB 342."

Oil & Gas Summit

OSBA is joining with the Buckeye Association of School Administrators (BASA), OASBO, the County Commissioners Association of Ohio and the Ohio Township Association to host a summit on Oct. 1 to discuss the public policy implications of Ohio's new oil and gas boom.

The development of hydraulic fracturing has made Ohio a focus of the oil and gas industry's expansion into the Utica and Marcellus shale regions. While increased economic activity can be a positive thing for the state — especially in the specific areas where the shale is located — there are many other ways communities will be affected by this industry. Schools and local governments are among those that will be impacted. We are hosting this important, informative event to help expand the public policy conversation on this issue.

Poll finds strong support for local schools, school boards

OSBA, BASA and OASBO recently commissioned a survey that found the majority of Ohioans strongly support their local schools, want funding cuts restored to local schools and governments, and oppose public funding for private and parochial school tuition.

The telephone survey was conducted by Fallon Research & Communication Inc. from Sept. 4 to 7. The survey polled 800 likely November general election voters statewide. It has a margin of error of +/- 3.46%.

The poll found nearly two-thirds of Ohioans said they most trust their local school board to make good decisions when it comes to education policies. Fifteen percent said they most trust the state school superintendent, 6.6% said the governor and 3.3% said the state legislature.

Richard Lewis, OSBA executive director, was not surprised about the trust and confidence the public has in local school boards.

"Locally elected boards are the most basic form of American democracy, guarding the education of the community's most precious

Milford EV teacher brings arctic adventure back to students

A Milford EV teacher is using an arctic expedition she participated in with National Geographic magazine to make class come alive for her students.

Milford High School teacher Katie Hoekzema was selected as a 2012 National Geographic Grosvenor Teacher Fellow. The fellowships are awarded to teachers who best demonstrate excellence in geography education. Hoekzema was one of 14 K-12 educators nationwide chosen to travel to Norway and Arctic Svalbard in June.

"This was the most unique experience I've ever had in my life and probably will ever have," Hoekzema told a local newspaper.

During the trip, she explored the arctic region, conferred with naturalists and spotted ample wildlife, including polar bears, seals and whales.

"We saw (a) blue whale, the world's largest," she said. "We saw fin whales. Blue and fin whales are very similar so we saw them in the same area."

Hoekzema, who teaches ninth-grade physical science and biology, is using the journey to develop activities for her classroom. She encourages students to get outside and explore the world. Hoekzema plans to speak to other schools, groups and organizations about her arctic expedition.

assets, the children," Lewis said.

A little more than half of Ohioans said new revenue from shale oil and gas taxes should be used to restore cuts to local governments and schools, while about a third said that money should be used to lower state income taxes.

Recent budget cuts, combined with the general economic climate, present major challenges for school districts seeking to maintain a high-quality education.

"Using the revenues from any additional severance (oil and gas) taxes to restore some budget cuts while also reducing the state income taxes would offer a balanced approach and be a very important investment in Ohio's future," said David Varda, OASBO executive director.

The poll found nearly two-thirds of Ohioans oppose using public funds to pay tuition for students to attend private and parochial schools. The survey also looked at public opinion about student assessments and school report cards. Fifty percent of Ohioans said it is a good idea to use student test data to rate the quality of school districts, and 41% said it was a bad idea.

Forty-eight percent of Ohioans said their district's local report card rating was "somewhat" influential when it comes to their opinion about the quality of education being provided to students; 30% said the rating was "very" influential and 16% said "not at all."

"The survey underscores the principle of local control of education in Ohio," said Dr. R. Kirk Hamilton, BASA executive director. "Ohioans appreciate their local schools and support the difficult decisions that must be made by school leaders each day."
